DIAL LITES — TONIGHT

6:00—KNX—"Good Sam," the fellow who is always helping people who get in trouble, finds that his good deeds disrupt his home life when he lends the family savings with which his wife is planning to buy a home. Joel McCrea and Ann Sheridan are the victims of this family situation on "Radio Theatre."

7:00—KHJ—"The continent 'Down Under' will be linked with Tokyo and N. Y. for the 'War Front-Home Front' broadcast. Peter Russo will be heard from Australia. Robert Stewart will fly specially from Seoul to Tokyo, and Maj. George Fielding Elliot will confer with them from New York.

8:00—KECA—Gov. Earl Warren will participate in a special program commemorating the 50th anniversary of the discovery of gold in California in 1848.

9:00—KFI—Zino Francescatti, noted French violin virtuoso, will be the guest soloist on the "Telephone Hour." On the lighter side Donald Voorhes will lead the orchestra in the music of Victor Herbert and Richard Strauss.

TELE-TIPS

6:58—KTLA—"The greatest" adventure on "Time for Beany" is always the time for the greatest fun for the children. They all love Cecil, the seaduck sea serpent, and all the other amazing characters on this top show.

7:30—KTLA—Joe Smith and Charley Dale, famed vaudeville team, do a return engagement on "Cavalcade of Stars," sharing comedy honors with emcee Jackie Gleason.

8:00—KTTV—"The Face is Familiar, But..." Joshua Shelley plays the boy who tries desperately to discover the name of the girl with whom he has fallen in love. We know her name... it is Barbara Wingling, and she takes the feminine lead in this Starlight Theatre production.

9:30—KNBH—Bob Cooke, sports editor of the N. Y. Herald Tribune, will occupy the uncomfortable seat as the male guest on "Leave It to the Girls." His opposition includes Vanessa Brown, Betty Furness, Dorothy Kilgallen and Eloise McElhorne, with Maggi McNellis as mistress of ceremonies.

Experts Make Many Mistakes Trying to Trick Opponents

By OSWALD JACOBY (Written for NEA Service)

EVERY once in a while the Cavalendish Club in New York is the scene of a special invitation bridge game in which participation is limited to a small group of players, all of whom would appear in anyone's ranking of the 20 best rubber bridge players in the world.

Strangely enough, while the play of cards is exceptional, the players spend so much time fooling one another, that bidding mistakes are frequent.

The bidding is worth study, though I don't recommend that anyone follow it. The opening bid of one spade is certainly normal. As for North's double, we refuse to comment, East's redouble is also correct, and there can be no objection to Mr. Crawford's bid of two diamonds. Since each side had a partial score, he saw no point in hurrying.

West might have bid two spades, but he chose to pass and await developments. He also saw no hurry. I don't quite understand North's bid of two spades, but he must have had some reason. East's double of two spades was sound. Mr. Crawford passed since he knew that his partner would rescue himself.

Now West decided to save a little time and went directly to three spades. He wanted to show that he had a good five card trump suit and that he was not interested in doubling his opponents at a low level in the bidding.

North four diamond bid was normal enough. Even North had to do something ordinary once, and East simply passed to wait further developments. Since he had redoubled one spade to start with, he knew that his partner would not pass four diamonds.

Mr. Crawford's bid of six diamonds was in the nature of a double cross. Of course he expected to make it and normally would have bid slowly in order to coax a double. In this case he decided the jump would produce the double anyway. As for his redouble, he knew that his opponents would have so many high cards that they would not become scared and run out.

There was nothing to the play of the hand. West opened his king of spades. Crawford trumped in dummy, drew trumps and led the king of hearts. East played the ace, and Crawford trumped it and claimed all the tricks.

Plunging Neckline Ban Spreading in Hollywood

By VIRGINIA MACPHERSON

HOLLYWOOD (UP) It's beginning to look like Hollywood's fed up with plunging necklines. There's a campaign on now to cover up the cuties.

Alan Young is the man who started it all. He banned bulging curves from his TV show three weeks ago.

Herman Hovver picked it up last week when he ordered singer Julie Wilson to hold her necklines or he wouldn't let her open at Ciro's. (Julie hoisted.)

The Band Box Club got on the bandwagon today when Owner Billy Gray issued a call for a girl who can thrill the customers with what comes out of her chest—not with how it's decorated.

The plot is spreading to other television shows and nightclub acts. And this trend may be just the thing to bring back legs.

Funnyman Young says he banned low-cut necklines for two reasons:

"In the first place they were killing my jokes," he confessed. "The audience was looking at the girl's lines instead of laughing at mine."

His other reason is sort of a public service you might say. He didn't want to scare the kiddies.

"They moved our time up to 7 p. m.," Young grinned. "I've picked up a lot of children that way. And I'm afraid they're not old enough to appreciate that kind of culture."

American Airlines Strike Prevented

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP) A threatened strike against American Airlines has been averted at least temporarily, the company said last night.

The walkout had been set for this morning by the C. I. O. Transport Workers Union to block 363 layoffs of ground personnel ordered after a merger of overseas operations.

Company and union officials met yesterday in several sessions, and American announced a temporary agreement.
