Bill Doudna's Season

TIP O' THE MORNING: Don't try to buy mail-order tickets for the Royal Philharmonic orchestra concert. All have been sold.

Opener

If Madison's musical season fulfills the promise of its first con- tentedly before a sunlit window cert, we're in for a most remarkable series of programs.

The Pro Arte quartet of the University of Wisconsin and Louise Mrs. India Edwards as grandmothockwood Carpenter, planist, gave us an exciting afternoon at the er of the year.

with two works, a sparkling Mozart and a tingling Dvorak.

The same five artists had ended the Quartet's 1949-50 season with the Dvorak quintet, which has gained in luster, perhaps because of the shift from Music hall to the theater, or perhaps partly because of the excellent new piano in the latter auditorium.

Because this quartet was written for Emperor Frederick, an amateur cellist, Mozart gave much attention to the cello—and Friedlander gave a sterling exposition.
