SPOTLIGHT
Camera Show

TIP O' THE MORNING: Seats sales for the Spike Jones show were so heavy that the Parkway management tried to book a third performance—but Spike said "no."

One judge from Minneapolis and two from Madison will be the jury for "Camera Concepts," the annual University of Wisconsin photo salon. Chairman Jack Cohen of the show's judging committee announced Thursday.

They are: George B. Wright, Minneapolis, editor of American Photography, long an exponent of higher standards for photo salons; Leonard Good, Madison, assistant professor of art education, former student at the Clarence White School of Photography, and for eight years a teacher of pictorial photography at the University of Oklahoma.

The judges will consider the entries Saturday in the Union Camera club and Union darkroom committee and their guests may attend and see their work.
