Word to Wise (as in Keyes)

By WILLIAM L. DOUDNA (State Journal Radio Editor)
One of my friends, a retired school administrator, told me the other day that he is "disturbed" over faulty pronunciations by radio announcers.

Proper names around Madison take a beating. Many times "St. Bernard is pronounced with the accent on the last syllable. Maybe, I thought, that's right, so I called the rectory.

EAST INDIANS OUTNUMBER NATIVE INDIANS OF BRITISH GUIANA
British Guiana, in the northern part of South America, is the home of interesting plants, animals and people.

Less than 10,000 native American Indians live in British Guiana. They travel about the rivers in crude boats known as "dugout canoes," and also employ small water craft made from tree bark.
