CITY VOTES ORDINANCE TO BAR FOOTLOOSE BEES

BURBANK Calif. (AP) The long arm of the law has reached into the activities of that industrious insect the honey bee.

The City Council here has adopted an addition to the municipal code which prohibits bees from swarming within 20 feet of any human habitation. Bees must be kept at a respectable distance, too.

There is one exception, however. Bees engaged in educational or scientific pursuits are exempt from the new ruling provided they don't fly at large.

Councilman Howard J. Stiker who introduced the resolution didn't explain what he meant by that. But he did say that "every year we get a mass of protests from bee-keeping citizens and it's time we did something about it."

Canvas such as that used for circus tents weighs three times as much when wet as when dry.
