

Draftees' and Veterans' Guide

By MAJOR THOMAS M NIAL
(A&E Newsfeature Writer)

For your information, here's a brief explanation of draft classes 1, 2 and 3. Next time I'll explain the last two classes, 4 and 5.

Selective service Roman numerals, such as III-A or V-A. So don't be confused if in my column and elsewhere you see Arabic numerals used, such as 3-A and 5-A. I use the Arabic numerals because sometimes people confuse V-A with VA the initials of the Veterans Administration.

Class 1-A Available for military service. You can't be drafted unless you're 1-A or 1-A-O. Say you're now 2-A. Your board would have to send you a notice of classification that you were 1-A before it ordered you up. And you could appeal within 10 days after that notice was mailed.

Class 1-A-O: Conscientious objector available for noncombatant military service. A fellow in this class may be inducted, but he is NOT given combat training and never has to bear arms. He is assigned to a medical unit and may serve anywhere, even in Korea.

Class 1-C: Member of the armed forces and certain registrants separated therefrom. All those on active duty are given this classification for record purposes. When those inducted under the present draft act are completely discharged they are classified 1-C (Disch). When transferred to a reserve unit they are classified 1-S (Res).

Class 1-D: Member of reserve component or student taking military training. If an ex-serviceman did not have 90 days' service during the so-called "shooting wars" (Dec. 7, 1941, to Sept. 2, 1945) but had between 90 days and 12 months between Sept. 16, 1940, and June 24, 1948, and is presently in a reserve unit, then he's classified 1-D.

The unit must be an organized unit of the service he was in, unless an organized unit is not "reasonably accessible." In that case he may still get the 1-D classification if he joins a volunteer reserve unit of his service. If no unit if his own service is available at all, he may join another service's unit to qualify.

Reserve Classification Also classified 1-D are those who were in organized units of the reserve or National Guard when the present draft act was enacted (June 21, 1948) and keep up their drill and training. Whether they had prior duty doesn't matter.

Those accepted for aviation cadet training are put in 1-D for no longer than four months while awaiting assignment to a class. So are ROTC enrollees who sign department agreements.

Class 2-A: Registrant deferred because of civilian occupation (except agriculture). This class includes those "whose employment in industry or other occupation or employment, or whose continued service in an office under the United States, or any state, territory or possession, or the District of Columbia, or whose activity in study, research or medical, scientific or other endeavors is found to be necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest."

Deferred students are 2-A (S). Agricultural Group Class 2-A: Registrant deferred because of agricultural occupation. It includes those who are "employed in the production for market of a substantial quantity of those agricultural commodities which are necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest."

Class 3-A: Registrant with dependents. Dependents include a wife or child "with whom he maintains a bona fide family relationship in their home."

Dependents may also include a separated or divorced wife, parent, grandparent, brothers, sisters, any other child under 18 or a person physically or mentally handicapped of any age. But these very important conditions must be met: (1) The registrant must have assumed their support "in good faith," not just to avoid the draft, (2) they must either be U. S. citizens or living in the U.S. and (3) his induction must mean "hardship or privation" to them.

Briton's War Antidote: 'Take More Exercise' LONDON, May 28. — (INS) Here's a new proposal for solving the age-old problem of preventing war: 'Take more exercise.'

So says a noted British hospital consultant who recommends strenuous exercise as a way of stifling aggression in the world.

St. Adolphe's Abrahams, writing in the medical journal Lancet, says that modern games and athletics "help the civilized citizen to express his emotions vicariously and to control his radical aggression."
