Hearty Breakfast Means More Pep, Science Discovers

By DR. CARL N. NEUPERT, (State Health Officer)

It may be a great temptation to skip breakfast for 10 extra min-utes in bed, but scientific experiments show that you'll have more pep through the morning if you get up and eat a good breakfast. Mid-morning fatigue may be a result of a low protein breakfast, or no breakfast at all.

You can easily remedy this by adding eggs, milk, cheese, or ham to your morning menu.

Through experiments, nutrition-
