Answer to Question No. 1 It probably varies in different groups with different customs. One study of 2596 couples (mostly college graduates) showed that where the wife ruled the roost, 47 per cent of the couples rated their marraige "happy." However, the highest proportion of happy marriages - 87 per cent - was where family control was 50-50. According to Myer F. Nimkoff's "Marriage and the Family," the 50.50 idea of marriage seems to be growing rapidly in the United States. Here is strong evidence that it pays.

Answer to Question No. 2 Yes, if you look at it solely from the standpoint of food and war. Prof. Warren Thompson, in "Plenty of People," shows that about two-thirds of the earth's peoples are always half-starved. However, he main-tains that hunger alone does not cause war. People go to war only when they wake up and learn other countries have food to spare. As long as they are ignorant of countries whose people are better fed, they take hunger as the law of nature. Answer to Question No. 3

NEW YORK, It is rare that Broadway sees a youngster come up in the footsteps of a famous mother or father and achieve the same success.

The "juniors," it seems, have too tough a time trying to get past that obstacle of the reflected glory of their starring parents or grandparents.

A sincere and talented actress like Ethel Barrymore Colt, I am sure, has continuously found that one of the most difficult prob-lems in her career as an actress has been the fact that she is "a
