1. CAN A MOTHER'S STAREWELL STRENGTHEN A SOLDIER'S COURAGE?

Yes. When the mother in the novel, "The Robe," starts to weep, the father says, "A mother can rearm her son by her own fortitude." This has a great lesson for us all just now. We cannot minimize the sacrifice;

we can only strengthen the boys with our own courage and forti-

Hurley Says Truce at 38 Appeasement

ALBUQUERQUE, June 28. (P) Patrick J. Hurley, former ambassador to China, describes the possibility of a truce at the 38th Parallel in Korea as appease

A stalwart Republican, Hurley declared, "Dean Acheson is talk ing appeasement already when he talks about a truce at the 38th Parallel. That isn't what those seventy-odd thousand casualties were fighting for. They wanted to chase out the aggressors and establish a democratic and free government in Korea.

The buxom blonde will make her video debut in her familiar role as "My Friend Irma." The show was originally set to begin in September but may be post poned to the first of 1952 because of Marie's recent illness. At any rate, the format has all been worked out and her well-known charms will be displayed. "T'll wear a plain dress in the first half of the show," she told me, "and then a low-cut gown in the second half." The less rigid rules of TV permit lower gowns
