Yes, Since the brain is smaller than the skull, it bounces around and hits the sides when a fighter is struck heavy blows on the head. This impairs mental ac-tivity, either slowly or quickly. Since I don't box, the large quantity of stupidity some readers claim I possess when I step on their mental toes, is not due to this cause. Some people require only a light jolt to make them rattle-brained and I've had some big ones in my time. That may account for a lot!
