TIP OF THE MORNING: The highly-successful format of "Dragnet"—semi-documentary—will be followed by other radio shows this fall. "Suspense" probably will adopt the style.

Entertainers from Trux Field will appear at the Eastwood theater at 8 p. m. Wednesday in "The Trux Revue With the Men in Blue." It will be a return date for the show.

Music, dancing and juggling will be on the bill, with Pfc. Lee Dolnich, Milwaukee, as master of ceremonies. Dolnich directs the performance, of which Staff Sgt. Charles R. Olson, Phillips, is producer.

A 15-piece band and an "All-Airmen" chorus of 15 voices will be among the features. The band is directed by Lieut. Richard Churchill, St. Louis, Mo., and Pfc. George Lynch, San Jose, Calif. Lynch also directs the chorus.

Pfc. Dan Nelson, San Diego, Calif., will be vocal soloist, and Pfc. Glenn New, Cambridge, will do a juggling act.

Completing the cast will be the Blue-Tone trio, composed of Pfc. Ernest Berthold, Milwaukee, accordion; Staff Sgt. John Severson, Madison, guitar; and Lynch, bass. The revue has played many Wisconsin cities, and plans another tour later this summer.

HOMECOMING: Donald "Red" Blanchard, comedian of the National Barn Dance on WLS, will return to his home state Aug. 20-24 to appear at the Wisconsin State fair. He will be featured with the Sage Riders on the "Dinnerbell" program from the WLS tent on the fairgrounds at 11:30 a. m. daily. "Red" is honorary mayor of Pittsville, his home town.

MISUNDERSTANDING: The name of the male vocalist on the CBS Friday night "Rayburn and Finch Show," which originates in New York, is Foster—Stuart Foster. He is frequently the target of jocular abuse by Gene Rayburn and Dee Finch.

And the name of "Idaho's Finest Furniture Store" in Boise, Idaho is Foster—"Foster's for Fine Furniture." Thereby hangs a tale of two cities, 2,000 miles apart. Rayburn and Finch were twitting Stuart Foster, as usual, when they were interrupted by a station break. Out in Boise, a local announcer took to the air to feature Foster Furniture's "Tremendous Floor covering Sale."

"That Foster is a bum," said Rayburn. "Ya, what a disreputable character," replied Finch. Forthwith, beclim broke loose. Everybody was on the phone—Station KDHJ, Boise, the account salesman, sponsor, etc.

This week Rayburn and Finch got a letter from Foster's furniture store. "We'll have you know, sirs," it read, "that we aren't bums and our reputation is not disreputable. . . . We're still laughing. Thanks to the publicity and don't send us a bill!" "Well, gee . . ." said Rayburn, or perhaps Finch. "Whiz," replied Finch. Or Rayburn.

MOVIE MEMOS: Edith Gwynn, Journal correspondent, writes from Hollywood: "About Face," the Warner musical in which Gordon MacRae, Gene Nelson, and Eddie Bracken will star, is about the stentch re-make of that old standby, "Brother Rat." The yarn was first made years ago with nary a tune, and has since emerged at least twice with music.

"Westward, the Women" ran almost three hours at its first rough-cut showing. But Metro's boss, Dore Shary, thinks it should stay that way. Too good to slice, sez he. Laura Bacall may be playing opposite Gary Merrill in "Phone Call from a Stranger" if she and H. Bogart get back here from Europe when the picture's supposed to start at 20th-Fox.

Nothing daunted by the flop of "Star Money," Kathleen Winsor is at work on a third book. It's another period piece—like "Amber." Max Steiner's theme-music for "Close to My Heart" (the Ray Milland-Gene Tierney starrer) will be put out as a pop tune with that title, by Harms, Inc. Paula Corday (formerly Paula Crosset when Doug Fairbanks, Jr., child got such raves from studio execs and public alike that she's been given a new contract and big things are being planned for her. "Young Man in a Hurry" is just a starter.

Ma, Speed Chandler will have his book, "Then God Took Over" (based on his 32 years as a flyer and test-pilot), in the stalls come September.

Glenn Ford, back from Europe has to do "European Edition" first, but Milton Sperling wants him to start in "Retreat, Hell!" after that one.

Sterling Hayden, hospitalized for surgery on his left knee. Result of an old war injury that never healed properly. Broadway comedienne Alice Pearce (probably best remembered for "On the Town") returns to Gotham to be in "Felen Goes to Memphis" as soon as she winds up her present role with Fred Astaire in "Belle of New York."

Louis Hayward starts toll in "Capt. Blood Returns." Patricia Medina will be his lady fair.

Ronald Reagan, who hasn't worked there in years, goes back to Warners for "Working Her Way Through College" with Virginia Mayo and Gene Nelson.

Hollywood hoofers are having a happy life this summer. For the first time, casting offices can supply enough chorus girls and boys. Because there are 11 big musicals now in shooting at major studios, and two more scheduled to start right quick! (Producers may be overworking this "cycle." Remember not so long ago, when musicals were so overdone that overnight they became theater-poison—and thousands of talented people were jobless?)

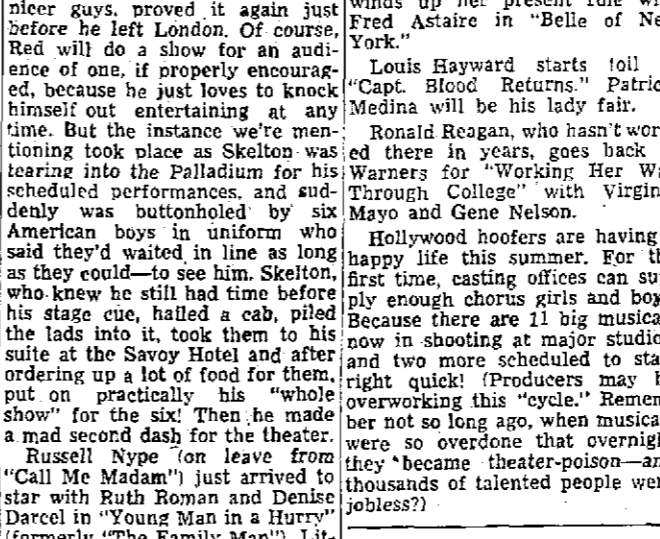

Radio actress Lurene Tuttle, probably the busiest gal on the airwaves for a long time, gets a good part with Cary Grant and Betsy Drake in "Room for One More," about to get the starting gun at Warners.

Joan Crawford and director Dave Miller, a ringside two to hear Tony Martin at the Cocoanut Grove.

Frank de Vol has a sensational new idea for a Western. In Frank's story, the cowboy will be smarter than his horse.

Red Skelton, one of the world's nicer guys, proved it again just before he left London. Of course, Red will do a show for an audience of one, if properly encouraged, because he just loves to knock himself out entertaining at any time. But the instance we're mentioning took place at Skelton's tearing into the Palladium for his scheduled performances, and suddenly was buttonholed by six American boys in uniform who said they'd waited in line as long as they could—to see him. Skelton, who knew he still had time before his stage cue, halted a cab, piled the lads into it, took them to his suite at the Savoy Hotel and after ordering up a lot of food for them, put on practically his "whole show" for the six. Then he made a mad dash back for the theater.

Russell Nye (on leave from "Call Me Madam") just arrived to star with Ruth Roman and Denise Dancel in "Young Man in a Hurry" (formerly "The Family Man"). Little Donna Corcoran has just been added to the cast. Remember few weeks ago when we mentioned the great enthusiasm at Metro over Donna, the pig-tailed moppet who was then finishing her scenes in "Angels in the Outfield" with Paul Douglas? Well, when that one was previewed the other right, the "RED" BLANCHARD discovered her and co-starred with her few years ago will have a featured role in "The Big Cast" with Mario Lanza, James Whitmore, and Dorothy Morrow.

Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz, who gave us all the wonderful score of "Bandwagon," among others, are confabbing with Metro execs about turning out the tunes
