Morals Case Jury Trial Set for Circuit Court
The case against Rodney Allen Sperie, Jr., 20, Edwards park, who is charged with indecent exposure, was transferred late Thursday afternoon from superior court to circuit court for jury trial.

Sperie is charged with exposing himself to three young women in the University of Wisconsin arboretum on Sept. 2. He requested a jury trial.

Three other men are scheduled for trial next Tuesday in superior court on disorderly conduct charges involving their alleged molesting of the same three girls.

They are Edwin Kjin, 25, of 215 E. Mifflin st.; William I. Lewis, 22, of 215 E. Mifflin st.; and Donald Walker, 20, of 752 E. Johnson st.

2 from Madison Attend Regional TB Meeting
Two Madison residents participated in the Regional Tuberculosis Control institute held Wednesday at Wisconsin Rapids.

They were Lynton Hazelbaker, city health educator, and Vivian B. Holland, research consultant for the state board of health.

The institute, one of five being held in the state this fall, brought those in attendance up to date of the latest methods used in fighting tuberculosis. It was sponsored by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Assn. and the Wisconsin Rapids affiliate.

SPOTLIGHT
New in Brief

TIP O' THE MORNING: Eddie Cantor will be back on NBC-WIBA Sunday nights starting Oct. 14, and Roy Rogers' show will move to NBC-WIBA Oct. 5.

Mail orders for "The First Drama Quartet's" performance of "Don Juan in Hell" at the Wisconsin Union theater Oct. 18 will be received Monday at the theater boxoffice.

The four stars who will read George Bernard Shaw's "Philosophical Charade" are Charles Boyer, Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and Agnes Moorehead.

A "Craft Fair"—its first—and the Encyclopedia Britannica show of contemporary American paintings are among the activities planned for the new season by the Madison Art Assn. A membership campaign has just started.

Seats are still available for the seventh annual "Harvest of Harmony," to be held at 8 p. m. Saturday in East and West high schools. Tickets will be on sale at the door at both places. Barbershoppers say more will be available at East than West.

Six of the 25 highest-rated quartets in the international barbershop society will be on both programs. Two Madison quartets will complete the lineup.

The Waukesha Symphony orchestra, under Milton Weber, will give its first concert Oct. 23. Weber spent part of the summer teaching and conducting at the State College of Education, Greeley, Colo., and the rest at Harper College, studying with Pierre Monteux.

Auditions for the Minnesingers, radio singing group heard Wednesdays on the state network in "Journeys in Musicland," will be held at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in Radio hall.

MOVIE MEMOS: Edith Gwynn, State Journal Hollywood correspondent, reports...

Sonja Henie and her long-time associate, Arthur Wirtz, have split up. These two owned almost every building or stadium in which her fabulous shows have appeared across the country.

Going separate ways, Sonja takes her own extravaganza, "The Sonja Henie Ice Revue," on tour next month. She tells us that, from now on, she'll keep it going most of the year.

After opening in Frisco, the show plays several cities in Texas and other states never hit before. Then she takes the troupe to Europe for two months.

The Ann Southern-Richard Egan nuptials will have a white. Unless he makes a quick dash to Broadway, where Annie's doing "Faithfully Yours" with Bob Cummings. Because Egan's career is booming here. Goes from the epic he's finishing now right into a good role in "Korean Story" next month.

Regardless of contrary items at the time, there really were some unfinished scenes left for the late Bob Walker to do in "My Son, John" when he died. Helen Hayes is here, not only to record the final speech which Bob was to have made, (merely as narration) but to complete some scenes that called for his presence. With Bob gone, the studio is getting around the problem by using a "double"—and shooting them entirely in silhouette.

Nanette Fabray, the N. Y. musical comedy star now tied to Metro, will be in the next Fred Astaire feature—lucky gal!

Gene Tunney opines, "Violent exercise after 40 is dangerous. Especially if you do it with a knife and fork."

Audrey Totter toddles off to Korea next week to cheer the soldiers. Jim Maloney landed a nice role in "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie." He'll play the husband of Merry Anders, the cute new 20th-Fox signee.

Debbie Reynolds and Carleton Carpenter proved such a mail-getting team after "Three Little Words" and "Two Weeks with Love" that they'll be paired again as the young-romance interest in "Everybody Swims," the next Esther Williams starrer. And, despite all the announcements of various films for Esther, this will be the one to follow her current "Skirts Ahoy!" The Annette Kellerman biography, "One Piece Suit," also scheduled for the Williams, has been postponed until next spring.

McNOTES FROM McNEILL: During his 18 years as head man of the "breakfast club," Toastmaster Don McNeill has gained a good conception of phases of wit, wisdom, and miswordage.

These items he has delivered to his listeners as "McNotes from McNeill." Here are some of his favorites:

In a California newspaper, this add appeared in the "Rooms for Rent" column: "Clean, large, sunny room with kitchen privileges on the bus line."

"Women are eager to do their husbands' bidding... at the bridge table."

Calvin Coolidge, famous as a man of few words, attended a formal dinner and found himself next to a gushing young woman. "Oh, Mr. Coolidge," said the sweet young thing, "You're going to help me. I bet my brother 10 dollars that I could make you say more than two words to me tonight." Coolidge's reply was brief. "You lose," he said.

George Bernard Shaw once received this invitation from a celebrity hunter... "Lady Van Smythe will be home on Tuesday between 4 and 6." His return note said simply, "So will Mr. Shaw."

"A budget is something people have so they can worry about their money before they spend it instead of after."

John Barrymore had made a purchase in an exclusive shop, and the clerk was writing the sales slip. "Name," he said, "Barrymore," replied John. The clerk was unimpressed. "Which Barrymore?" he asked. The Great Profile looked at him coldly, and snarled, "Ethel."

Two fathers were talking about their sons in college. Said one, "What's your son going to be when he gets out of college?" And the other replied, "Looks like he's going to be 40."

"A widow is just like a window. When you get near either one—look out!"
