Forthright Action Gets Full Results

ALTON, Ill. (U.P.)—For years H. P. Bunyan had wanted to do something about a big catalpa tree situated on the property line between his yard and that of his neighbor, Vert VanAusdall. But Bunyan refrained from cutting down the tree—which seraped against his garage and littered the yard with leaves—because he thought VanAusdall might object. Finally, Bunyan decided to take action. He told his son to saw off some of the more offending branches. Neighbor VanAusdall, observing the boy at work, strolled over and asked: "Why don't you cut the whole darn thing down while you're at it?" Bunyan and his son quickly obliged. "It just goes to show how wrong you can be about a neighbor," Bunyan observed.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

it indicates a good hand (which South doesn't have) and denies stoppers in hearts (which South does have).
Willingly or unwillingly, each South went to two no-trump, after which a raise by North to three no-trump brought the bidding to an end.
The final contract wasn't particularly sour, since it depends only on finding the king of diamonds in the West hand.
At most tables the play was short and sharp. West opened the jack of hearts, and South won with the queen. South then took the diamond finesse, and East triumphantly won with the king.
A heart return then allowed West to run four more tricks, setting the contract.
South could easily win the rest with top cards in the black suits and the rest of the diamonds.
At a few tables the result was even worse for poor South. He managed to go down three tricks instead of only one.
It was just a question of running up against a defender who was willing to give South enough rope to hang himself.
At the second trick South led a low diamond and finessed dummy's queen. And a few East players refused the trick without the slightest hesitation!
A very simple defensive play, which can hardly lose and will very often gain.
Declarer naturally gets ambitious when he thinks the diamond finesse is onside.
He gets to his hand with the

When the hand shown today was played in the national championships at Washington, D. C., two months ago, nearly every player who held the South cards became declarer at a contract of three no-trump.
Most of them lived to regret it. The South hand is a perfectly normal, but minimum, opening bid of one club.
The trouble arises when West overcalls and North follows with a response of two diamonds. What should South do then?
If he bids two no-trump, he suggests a better hand than he really holds. The only other possibility, two spades, is even worse, since Visiting Bavarian Impressed by U. S.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (U.P.)—Communists in Germany paint a highly-distorted picture of conditions in the United States, said an official representative of the Bavarian government.
Fritz Graesler, who visited a niece here, said a Red-controlled newspaper told him he would find that "capitalists who exploit the workers to the bone live a good life, while millions of people live in the streets without work and decay there."
Instead, Graesler said, he was amazed by the high standard of living in this country. He also was tremendously impressed by the American system of government, with its freedom of speech and press.

Then East takes the king of diamonds, whereupon the defenders can take not only four heart tricks but also two spades.
