(noted outhor of "Release from Nervous Tension," "Be Your Real Self," etc.)

"Not only doctors, but almost all people, know that rest is often of first importance in the treatment as well as in the prevention of many types of illness. "What is not yet so well known is that there are degrees of rest. This can perhaps be most clearly explained by a simple comparison. "Everyone knows that the nutritive values of various articles of food, for example, differ widely. In other words, a small amount of the right kind of food can have more nutritive value than large quantities of the wrong food. "Similarly, we now know that comparatively short periods of complete relaxation can actually mean more rest for the body than much longer periods of partial relaxation.

"And we know too that complete relaxation can be achieved only when the body is correctly supported in its natural, most restful posture. "When the Contour chair was introduced, it was apparent to doctors that here at last was a chair correctly designed to afford maximum relaxation - and therefore maximum rest - for the human body. A chair, in short, which could give more rest-per-minute...just as correct foods can give
