S. F. Wife-Seeker Wants German Bride, Advertises

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27. (A) A San Francisco streetcar conductor has advertised in a German newspaper for a bride because he wanted a "home girl" and "didn't have time to look for one in the United States."

Richard W. Biermann, 31, said girls who will make a "good wife and sweetheart" are hard to find in this country because most American women want to "go out" all the time —and get tired of housework at 4:30 a. m. and not returning home until after 6 p. m.

The six-foot six-inch blond was with the U. S. Air Force for three years during World War II. He was stationed in France and England, but spent only two hours in Germany.

The fact that he does not speak or read German doesn't bother Blermann because he feels most Germans pick up English very rapidly and have
