Here's Last Nominating Ballot

By WILLIAM L. DOUDNA
(State Journal Radio Editor)

Nominating ballots in The State Journal's 1951 radio poll have just about swamped this department—but we're asking for more.

They started coming on Monday, the day after the ballot was first printed, and they have been coming ever since.

Nominations so far show a wide variety of choice—programs and personalities in every conceivable type of radio presentation, from religious broadcasts to variety shows.

In the program division, dramatic offerings appear to be the most popular, while singers and comedians lead in the performer section.

Exactly 88 programs have been nominated, while names of 101 performers or performing groups have been listed. The latter include actors, comedians, singers, newscasters, masters of ceremonies, conductors, pianists, violinists, dance bands, and quiz program experts. (There was even one vote for me.)

Comparatively few readers sent any comments with their votes, but there probably will be more with the final ballots.

Now, here's the routine on the poll:

Today we are printing the nominating ballot for the last time. Send it in with the names of your five favorite programs and five favorite artists, regardless of the type of show or performance. List them as much as possible in the order of your preference. For example, put your favorite show in the No. 1 spot on the program list and your favorite performer in the No. 1 position on the performer list, then go down the line.

During the coming week, we will tabulate these returns.

Then we will prepare a list of nominees—several in each of a number of categories.

For example, you will be asked to vote for your favorite mystery show, non-mystery dramatic show, light musical program, serious music program, news analyst, comedian, dance orchestra, and so on.

The final ballot will be published only once—next Sunday.

Mark it, please, and mail it at once. We expect to announce the results on Christmas day.

If you have already cast a nominating ballot, please don't send another.

But be sure to vote in the final election on Sunday, Dec. 16.

Which Was 'Worst' Hurricane?

Recently I read an article in a magazine about the hurricane which struck the eastern part of the United States last November. The writer said that insurance companies had paid out almost $150,000,000 for damage claims. That "big blow" caused trouble from Maine down to Virginia. The article seemed interesting to me, but I hardly agree with the statement made that last year's hurricane was "the worst ever experienced over the eastern part of the country."

Thirteen years ago there was a storm which took many more lives. This was a hurricane which struck New England, and also did some damage southward to the Carolinas.

The loss of life in the 1938 hurricane was estimated at 295, but the single state of Rhode Island may have lost that many in the 1938 hurricane. In addition, Massachusetts lost about 100 lives, and Connecticut suffered heavily. The total death toll of the New England hurricane was at least 488, and estimates have ranged as high as 700.

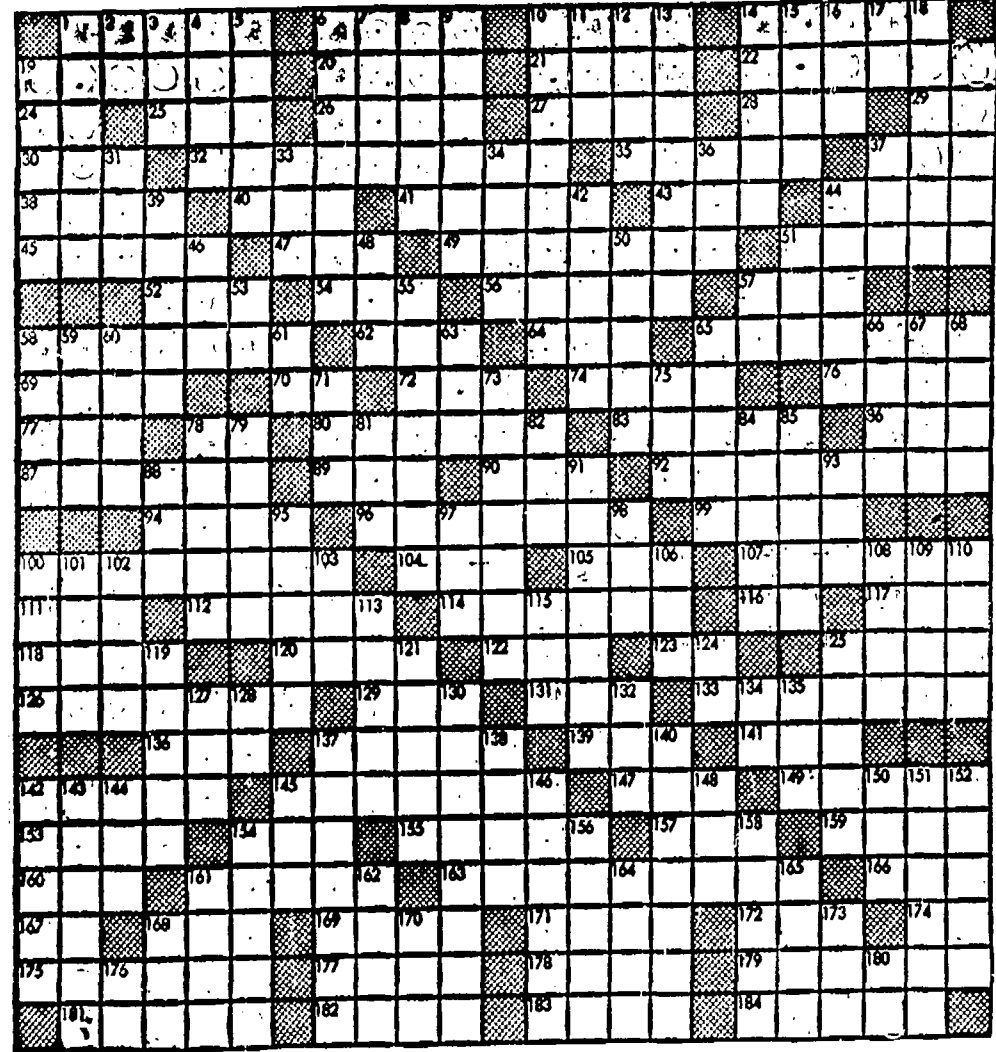

It is true that the collection of insurance damages was larger in the later hurricane, but human life is more important than property.

Moreover, there was less insurance in force 13 years ago. The hurricane served as a warning to people to take more wind-storm insurance, and to add extended coverage to their fire insurance policies.

In the early afternoon of the 21st day of September, 1938, a gale struck New England. In Providence there was a hurricane warning at 3:10 p. m., and soon afterward the gale turned into a hurricane. Roofs were blown down, houses, trees, came tumbling down, and a lighthouse fell into the sea, bringing death to the keeper.

Another lighthouse, on Palmer Island, stood through the storm, and its keeper lived, but his wife—Mrs. Arthur Small—came to grief when she sought to help him. In a small boat she tried to row to the lighthouse, but the waves overturned her craft, and she was drowned.

The high tide, swept by the furious wind, had much to do with the damage. Water flooded Providence to depths of from 6 to 10 feet.

For your sense of well-being

Rule No. 1 in pregnancy is to follow your physician's instructions carefully.

Many doctors recommend a Camp Support at this time—because it's designed according to approved medical standards. It gives you just the support you need and relieves back strain and muscular fatigue. And it does things for your serenity by helping to keep up appearances.

Your garment will be expertly fitted. Then come in periodically for an adjustment as your figure changes.
