Treasury Supports Proposal to Curb Tax-Trial Methods

WASHINGTON—(P)—Treasury officials indicated Sunday they would welcome a move by Congress to clamp rigid restrictions on former government employees who seek to represent clients before government agencies.

In fact, a spokesman noted, the treasury in 1936 urged a sweeping bar against the practice, but Congress did nothing about it. There's nothing to indicate the Treasury has changed its position since then.

The issue was spotlighted by two developments last week:

ONE, Sen. John J. Williams (R-Dele) charged the Treasury has collected "not a dime" on $2,000,000 tax claims assigned to former tax collector Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., another Nunan client settled an original $812,000 tax claim for $4,500 and later got a $35,000 refund, Williams said.

TWO, The Treasury disclosed that a law firm including Nunan and other former tax officials—Nunan resigned from the firm last week—has received 102 special permits to handle tax cases which were pending while they worked for the government.

Altogether, 631 former treasury employees have been cleared to handle tax cases for clients since 1942.

Williams and other lawmakers have demanded tighter curbs on former officials or employees coming back to represent private clients before agencies in which they served.

Farrington formerly attended the University of Wisconsin.

Douglas Urges South to Back Statehood Bills

CHICAGO—(UP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) called upon Southern states Sunday to end their opposition to statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

In a radio interview, Douglas said "the Southern states know that if Alaska and Hawaii are admitted there will be four more senators who will vote for civil rights legislation."

But he said the South should place "the national interest above its prevailing regional concerns."

"As a matter of fact, it's against the regional interest of the big states to admit these small states because they would probably join the public works bloc and obtain large grants of federal money for which the big states would pay," Douglas said.
