

TIP O' THE MORNING: Jack Benny will probably have both radio and television shows next season, and Mary Livingstone is reported to have been offered a producer's job at CBS.

UNCLE HARRY wasn't really anybody's uncle. He was such a nice guy that everybody called him "Uncle." He committed the perfect crime, but nobody would believe him, which is a very heart-breaking circumstance for a man with pride in his work. Humiliating, too.

That's about as far as one dares go in recounting the crucial events of the melodrama, "Uncle Harry," which Wisconsin Players presented Tuesday night in the Wisconsin Union theater.

They will repeat it at 8 each night through Saturday. This was a mystery story in reverse—in fact, it was in double reverse. For the audience saw seed of murder germinate and grow and flower; there was no mystery about who did it. The double reverse came with the revelation that nobody was going to hang the real killer, and that he didn't like that kind of finish.

Fredrick Buerki's direction, with the assistance of some expert student actors, built up suspense to the final curtain, with spaces for good laughs interspersed in the action. There was earnestness about some of it, too, but Buerki wisely kept it subtle.

Ronald Ranscht turned in one of the year's best performances in the title role, letting the audience see or feel every turn of Uncle Harry's mind, from humiliation at the hands of his overbearing sisters through triumph to an even greater humbling.

Donna Wenzer gave an equally fine performance as the sister upon whom he pinned the killing—first a fluttering, jealous spinster, then the victim of circumstance, then the heroine who could envision an odd kind of justice for Harry. Connie Crosby, as the second and more dominant sister, was as good as the role would let her be.

Smaller parts were handled well by Ann Christensen as the sharp-tongued maid-of-all-work; Harold DeLain as a lugubrious drinking partner of Harry's; and Gretchen Hardt as a flip waitress.

SUMMER PLAYS: A children's play will be included in Players' summer bill for the first time this year. It will be directed by Dr. Dorothy Kester, visiting specialist in drama for children. Four plays will be presented in the Wisconsin Union theater, one in the Play Circle; none has been definitely chosen.

CAMPUS ART: Prizes and awards in the 1952 Student Art show at the University of Wisconsin will be announced at 8 tonight in Great hall of the Memorial Union.

The jury—Fred Berman, Milwaukee; Michael Higgins, Chicago, and Lester O. Schwartz, Ripon—viewed 291 entries Saturday and Sunday to choose those which will receive recognition either in awards or by being displayed.

The total was smaller than last year's all-time high but larger than the 1950 figure. Average for the three years is exactly 300 entries.

Graphics led the entries, with 70. There were 69 in the oil-tempera-opaque casein group; 52 in the mixed technique—water color-pastel class; 29 sculpture; 49 pieces in art metal-commercial design, and 22 in pottery-ceramics.

Awards will include $155 in purchase prizes, $235 in outright awards, and eight merchandise awards.

The show will be open to the public from April 3 to May 19 in the main and theater galleries of the Union.

DISCS OF THE DAY: Choice "pop" issues include Sammy Kaye's spirited, nonsensical "Winnepesaukee" (paired with the smooth "I Ain't Lazy"; Paul Weston's "Low in the Lehigh Valley," with the Luboff choir's expert lyrics (paired with "Flapperette," an oldie featuring pianist George Greeley and the humming Luboffs), and Rosemary Clooney's new offering for the kids, "Eggbert the Easter Egg" and "Bunny on the Rainbow."

TODAY'S QUOTE: "A committee is a group of the unfit appointed by the unwilling to undertake the utterly unnecessary."—Mr. Merrivueather in "The Halls of Ivy."

AT WAUKESHA: Leo Steffens, of the University of Wisconsin music faculty, will be soloist with the Waukesha Symphony orchestra in a concert at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday, April 8, in the Waukesha high school auditorium.

Steffens and the orchestra will play Schumann's A-minor concerto. This will be a homecoming for the soloist, for Steffens studied piano at Carrol college with Clarence Shepard before going to Cornell university as a student of Egon Petri. His other teachers have been Robert Casadesu, in France, and Gunnar Johansen, at Wisconsin. This will be Steffens' second appearance with the Waukesha orchestra.

The program also will include "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," Mozart; "Symphony in E-Flat Major (Rhenish)," Schumann, and "Tanhauser" overture, Wagner.
