JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

West waited patiently for the opponents to get high enough before he doubled. When South finally got to four spades, West doubled with a sense of outrage.

West's reply is best left to the imagination. As South generously conceded the jack three tricks East duly observed "Nice double, partner."

By this time West was left with the queen-jack-nine of trumps and a case of near apoplexy. As South graciously conceded the jack three tricks East duly observed "Nice double, partner."
