The Tomlinson Exhibition

(Associate Professor of Art Education, University of Wisconsin)
In showing the work of Mrs. Florence K. Tom-In showing the work of Mrs. Florence K. Tomlinson at Scanlan hall in the Vocational school, the Madison Art Assn. is honoring a woman who has long given unselfishly of herself in the work of that organization in bringing rapport between the producer of the arts and the public.

"Garden Produce," another wood engraving, is two/Act.

ducer of the arts and the public.

The exhibit is a varied one in the types of media that are used by the artist. The water colors and oil paintings indicate a struggle with medium not yet quite resolved. However, in the matter of the print techniques, Mrs. Tomlinson displays a deftness and sureness with graver and end-grain block. In contrast to the paintings, there is an understanding of what is to be done the business of interfusing subject matter, materials and techniques into a satisfying whole,

"The Centerpiece" is a print that is done well. Here the artist has depicted a lady ironing a lace tablecioth. Textural interest is cleverly concentrated in the cloth itself so that the centerpiece becomes a dominant interest in fact as well as in title.
