"JUMPING JACKS"

TIP O' THE MORNING: Radio and television fans will find lots of fun and information in "Out of the Blue," a collection of John Crosby's columns just published in book form, MAGNIFICENT perform-A made of Brahms' "Piano Quartet in A Major" by Prof. Leo Steffens, pianist, and three members of the Pro Arte quartet climaxed the opening of the quartet's Music ball season Sunday night.

Steffens, as he always is, was a perfect complement for the string players - Rudolf Kolisch, violin: Bernard Milofsky, viola, and Ernst Friedlander, cello.

The work opens quietly, but its first movement soon assumes a magnitude almost symphonic. As the quartet develops, it becomes again real chamber music, with an impas-sioned second movement, a vigor-ous scherzo, and highly rhythmic finale filled with melody.

The program opened with Mozart's only work for violin, viola, and cello, his "Divertimento in E Flat Major." In classic form, it is rich with diversity, especially in the variations between two minuets in the very center of two minuets in the very center of

The three men played with their usual cohesiveness, but there was an occasional roughness in the vioonly a momentary lapse from the purity to which these musicians have accustomed us.

Arnold Schoenberg's one-move-ment "String Trio, Opus 45" completed the program.

Scheonberg's music affects one differently each time he hears it whether it is the same piece or a different one from the last he listened to. This time, it appeared to be a mixture of harmonics, pizzicatos, glissandos, and other string trickeries interrupted by passages of haunting and tantalizing beau-

The next time, probably, these would be the focus of attention.

SOMETHING NEW: Whether Bob Hope's invasion of day-trend in broadcasting will de-pend, of course, upon women' acceptance of the change.

These listeners took Arthur Godfrey to their hearts, and the result and the result was a virtual end of serial programming in the morning.

Hope will be heard at 1.45 pm. Monday through Friday via WIBA and WIBA-FM. The show will be made up Hope's comments, recordings from his appearances before servicemen, and dates with guest stars. First of these will be Zsa Zsa Gabor, slated as "editor" for Gabor, slated as "editor" for this week; second will be
