ON DANGEROUS GROUND

TIP O' THE MORNING: Hy Gardner fans can hear him now on WMAQ at 5 p. m. Sundays.

THE Madison Theater Guild's first attempt at arena, or "theater in the round," production came out just fine.

In any experiment in the 10-10 Strike is theater, one looks more at the 10-13 Rich Rich staging than at the play, and 10-15 Rob Hops Corner" — entertaining as it is— can't stand too close scrutiny as a drama. On the other hand, it lends itself ideally to the arena.

The Guild production opened Wednesday night at Scanlan hall, and will be there at 8:15 each night

Director Al Barraciough had done a thorough job of casting and singing, and his players were purfectly at hone on the playing area there which the residence and a second cast of the playing area there which the residence and the playing area. about which the audience was seat-

The scene was a rather swank living room, and the low lines of the modern furniture permitted clear vision for all the spectators. In this room, the actors had complete freedom of movement, and made the most of it; the timbre of their voices was such that not a their voices was such that not a single line was lost, even to thos 6:00 * News Parade 6:15 * Melody: New 6:39 * News of Worl 6:45 * 1 Man's Fan who for the moment saw only their Barraclough played the stuffy head of the company, Marjorie Schaffer his knowing wife. Ray Lenahan was the wife's erratic brother, and Lou Dorlag his pettish spouse. Joseph Klein was the outspoken bachelor member of the firm, and Agatha Church gave a perfect picture of a gossiny novel. perfect picture of a gossipy novel-ist.

All were good, but the show added up as a triumph for Barra-clough as director.

'THE SHRIKE': After an absence of 12 years, Van Heflin will return to the Chicago stage Monday when he opens a six-week engagement in "The Shrike." The play will be at the Erlanger theater.

Heflin's last stage appearance in Chicago was with Katharine Hep-burn in "The Philadelphia Story" burn in "The Philadelphia Story" in 1941. This company also was at the Parkway theater here.

Doris Dalton, who played opposite Clifton Webb in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "Present Laughter" on tour, will portray Heflin's wife, with Kendall Clark as the play's psychiatrist. He was in the New York production.

DAY OF PRAYER: In observance of "World Day of Prayer," WISC will open and close its broadcast day Friday with a prayer, and will have another prayer at noon.

CHILDREN'S SHOW: Members of the Badger school Parent-Teacher assn. (PTA) will be in charge of children at the PTA matinee in the Eastwood theater at 1 p.m. Saturday. The feature at 1 p.m. Sature will be "Ginger," The parents' committee consists
