

TIP O' THE MORNING: Dr. Sigfrid Prager, former conductor of the Madison Civic Symphony orchestra, and Mrs. Prager will pay a short visit to Madison in September. They're now touring Europe.

A THOUSAND or so persons paid as much as $3.60 per seat to hear Horace Heidt extol a cigaret and its makers at East High school Friday night.

He gave them a show, too—one with some high calibre acts—but these theatergoers should have been spared the commercial. It was in particular bad taste because of its position on the program—immediately after Ralph Sigwald's heartfelt singing of "The Lord's Prayer."

It appeared for a long time that Heidt had given up this practice; until then, he had referred to his radio sponsor only indirectly through use of the theme melody.

Aside from this and Heidt's attempts at comedy, one of which stole attention from Jack Rowley's expert baton twirling, it was a pretty good show.

Standouts were Dick Kerr, impressionist; Sylvia Mae, 14-year-old accordionist and hillbilly singer; Johnny "It's in the Book" Standley, and Sigwald.

Jim Plucker, tenor from Burlington, and Donna Jean Lundeborg, Cottage Grove accordionist who's a senior in Stoughton high school, were the night's "local talent." Plucker won the applause vote, but each received a $25 prize.

Kerr combined a flair for comedy-by-contrast with his excellent impersonations of Eckstine, Armstrong, Downey, Tony Martin, and Ray; his hilarious crying act ended in a tantrum which left him on the floor.

Sylvia used a Sis Hopkins makeup and mannerism and funny animal imitations to sell "Doggie in the Window" to hearty applause, and Sigwald did his numbers with dignity and improved delivery.

Standley started weakly with some pallid lines, but a version of "It's in the Book" different from the recorded one just about stamped the audience. He has to be seen to be appreciated fully. With fresh material, he should be able to make himself a permanent theatrical attraction.

Other acts included Lou Prochut, agile accordionist; Betty Cole, personable and rhythmic singer; the Four Hildons, a teeterboard act with a sensational finish and weak comedy; a young chorus line which included some good solo dancers, and Conley Graves in a swingy piano solo.

Decorative Elizabeth Lynch's delivery of "I Danced at Your Wedding" set the stage of a pretty wedding scene whose star was a tiny flower girl.

YOUTH DAY: Boys and girls from elementary and junior and senior high schools will take over the University of Wisconsin campus today, many of them singing and playing instruments from early morning until late at night.

A total of 6,400 youngsters is expected for two music events—the All-State Solo and Ensemble festival and the "Journeys in Musicland" festival.

Of these, about 3,000 will play, sing, twirl batons, and wave flags alone and in groups before a corps of judges in 13 buildings and on Lincoln terrace, beginning at 8 a. m.

They'll come from communities of all sizes and in all parts of the state—a line drawn diagonally through one side of the day's program touches Withee, Woodville, Columbus, Plattville, Kohler, Chippewa Falls, Sturgeon Bay, Denmark, Sheboygan, Belleville, Oconto Falls, Richland Center, Elkhart Lake, Milwaukee, Cornell, Seymour, Waunakee, Antigo, Wisconsin Rapids, and De Forest.

The musicians will be seeking "star" ratings, marking them as the best high school musicians in the state. All of them won such ratings in district festivals earlier in the spring. From the "star" group will be chosen several to give a concert at 7:30 p. m. in Music hall, where 17 University Music clinic scholarships will be awarded.

About 3,400 elementary school pupils from 183 schools will gather at the stock pavilion in the afternoon to sing under the direction of the radio music teacher, Prof. E. E. Gordon.

This program will be broadcast at 1 p. m. by WHA and the state network.

TOURNAMENT OF SONG: The University of Wisconsin's 1953 Tournament of Song will open on the campus Monday. Co-chairmen are J. Ludger Parr, and Donna Ploog, both of Madison.

In the independent division, finals will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday, in Music hall. At the same time, finals for the open division, including all choruses not representing living units, will be held in 272 Bascom hall. Dormitories finals will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, in Music hall. The next Monday, May 18, Greek finals will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Wisconsin Union theater.

All-campus finals will be held as a part of Parents' Weekend, Saturday, May 23, at 7:30 p. m. in the theater. Tickets for the all-campus finals will go on sale at the theater box office Monday. All other sessions are open to the public without charge.

The Tournament was established by Sigma Alpha Iota national music sorority and Phi Mu Alpha national music fraternity. Its purpose is to create active interest in music among students, to get more students singing, and to find the best choruses on campus.

Winners in all but the open division will compete in the all-campus finals. Trophies will be awarded to winners in each of the groups.

All-School Talent Show Held at Fort FT. ATKINSON—An all-school talent show held at the high school here Wednesday was so successful that the event may become an annual affair, Margine Frye, adviser of the Masque and Gavel club which sponsored the show, said.

First place winners chosen by the judges of the show were Doug Vogel, pianist, and Jim Hammon, drummer, who called themselves "The Gruesome Twosome" and played several jazz numbers. Judges were Ralph Ebbot, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Lucille Gleisner, public school coordinator, and James F. Luther, superintendent of schools.

Their choice for second place was an original skit written by Carman Vaughn and Tom Bostwick and put on by Jean Drummond's English class.

Third place went to Carmen and Sonia Haug, twin sisters, who played a piano duet and yodeled.

Now is the time to Visit McKAY'S. Drive Out to Waterloo. Yes, it's a real thrill—that spring-time trip to the beautiful McKay Nurseries at Waterloo. You'll call it time well spent when you see the wide variety of high-quality northern grown stock—shade trees, small fruits, and flowering shrubs.
