At the Shows
Orpheum
FEATURE: The Band Wagon" TYPE: musical
CAST: Tony, Fred Astaire; Gabrielle, Cyd Charisse; Lily, Nanette Fabray; Jeff, Jack Buchanan; Lester, Oscar Levant.
REVIEWER: Helen Matheson
STORY: Astaire plays an aging dance star of stage and screen; his trademark is a top hat and once he made a big hit called "Swinging Down to Panama." But lately his career has been in eclipse and he lets himself get talked into trying a change of pace—a Broadway musical, directed by a Great Man of the Theater bent on creating a modern version of Faust, and equipped with a ballerina who saw all Fred's, uh, Tony's pictures when she was "just a little girl" and considers working with him "just like dancing with a statue of Gen. Grant!"
HIGH POINTS: The welcome novelty of a gay, bright-colored, light-hearted musical with no psychological undertones... Tony and the beautiful dancer—each secretly terrified of appearing beside the other—meet for the first time and all but come to blows... Before-and-after scenes of the out-of-town opening, in hilarious contrast... Levant, dancing waltzers with a tiny role... Nanette Fabray, a charming actress when she isn't trying to be a star... The wit and imagination of the big dance number; a satire on the whodunit of the tough-private-eye, "she-was-no-good-but-she-was-my-kind-of-woman" so-I-thumbed-a-match variety.
LOW POINTS: Some situations that drag a little... Uninspired dialog... Failure to define the character of the director; the fuzziness enveloping the part weakens the humor and plot... New tunes that are only so-so... VERDICT: So maybe this one isn't up to the delightful standards of the old Astaire musicals—it's still a gayer entertainment than we've had in some time and a fine, prancing step in the right direction.

Stevenson Rests
LONDON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson left London by air Thursday to rest up from his world tour for 10 days at Nice, on the French Riviera. Stevenson said he would return to the United States after his visit to Nice. He traveled with his son, John.

Milwaukee Road to End Windsor Depot Service
The Milwaukee Road was authorized to remove its depot and eliminate custodian service at the unincorporated community of Windsor in Dane county, in an order issued by the state Public Service Commission (PSC) Thursday afternoon.
The railroad told the PSC at a hearing in June that the Windsor station handled no less-than-carload freight in 1952. The station books have been kept by the agent at De Forest.
The road was permitted to drop passenger service at Windsor in August, 1952.
