Cash ticket sales amounted to virtually the same total as that of last summer, even though attendance declined 26,906. The reduction was entirely in the 50-cent and 75-cent sections, with higher price seats recording an increase in number sold. Municipal Opera management is convinced that strikes played an important part in the downward sale of lower price seats.

The season just ended marks the second in which no perform-ance was cancelled: The pre-
