JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

Tournament bridge has become so popular in recent years that you can travel all over the western world and find fellow enthusiasts who will join you in a game and understand your bids and plays even if they can't understand your language.

On this continent, tournaments are conducted both in the United States and Canada by the same organization—the American Contract Bridge League. They even conduct an annual tournament in Mexico City, and another in Honolulu.

The annual Hawaiian tournament was played just this last weekend, and many of the ranking bridge stars of the country flew out to take part.

Among the well-known players of the West coast who were scheduled to compete for the Hawaiian championships was Doug Steen, the declarer in the hand shown today.

Don't let the strange bidding throw you. East was a player who likes to bid whenever his turn comes. It didn't do him much good on this hand, because both black suits helped declarer in the play of the hand.

West opened the six of spades. Steen played the eight of spades from the dummy. East covered with the jack, and declarer led the nine of ruff. Steen knew that he could discard one low club on dummy's spades, but what was he to do with the others?

If he tried to ruff them in dummy, declarer would overruff, and make two discards. East had to do as a matter of fact, there was reason to fear that West would ruff the ace or king of clubs if turn comes. South tried such a plan. Steen decided not to try the plan of ruffing clubs. Instead he drew three rounds of trumps immediately, East discarding one club on the third round of trumps.

He next entered dummy with the jack, and declarer led the nine of ruff. Steen knew that he could discard one low club on dummy's spades, and South ruffed with his last trump.

South next took the queen and ace of diamonds, forcing East to discard two diamonds. East had to do as a matter of fact, there was nothing he could do. East had to do as a matter of fact, there was

Bill Dombina's SPOTLIGHT 'Man and Superman'

TIP OF THE MORNING: The India Association of the University of Wisconsin will offer another of its concerts at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 3, in Great Hall. Among the artists will be S. K. Mukherjee, an All-India radio star. Tickets will go on sale today at the Wisconsin Union theater box office.

NEXT TO SEEING A PLAY well acted, the best thing is hearing it competently read. Phi Beta fraternity's presentation of Shaw's "Man and Superman" at Scanlan hall Sunday night was far above competence.

A cast which often reached the heights of fine comedy did more than merely read the Shaw lines, more than etch the Shavian situations, more than project them with insight and intelligence. The readers seldom stilled, brought the story, the wit, and even the limited action into being.

"Man and Superman" is the next play in the series will be "Venice Observed," to be presented Nov. 22.

ART: Works of Donald M. Anderson, Warrington Colestock, Dean J. Meeker, and Alfred Sessler have been chosen for inclusion in the 41st annual Watercolor and Print Exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

SCHUBERT CLUB: The Schubert club of Madison will have the first meeting of its 30th season Tuesday at the home of Mrs. T. Lanevard, 106 Kensington drive.
