Receptionist Blocks Thief in Janesville

JANESVILLE — A determined dentist's receptionist took matters in her own hands late Monday and prevented a thief from taking the dentist's funds and her purse.
Joyce Britt was on duty in the office of Dr. John W. Smith on S. Main st. when she heard a strange noise in a closet of the office. A small man aged 55 or 60 clad in a leather jacket sprang out and attempted to flee. He was carrying Miss Britt's handbag.
Miss Britt called to the dentist, but he couldn't leave his patient at that second, so she grabbed the intruder. The robber hastily dropped Miss Britt's purse, pushed her away, and fled.

2 Navy Jets Lock Wings, Crash; 2 Die

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Two Navy Panther jets locked wings during a formation flight and crashed Tuesday, killing both pilots.
The pilots were identified as Lt. James R. Hake, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond R. Hake of Lancaster, Pa., and Ens. Robert E. Mulcrone, son of Mrs. M. Mulcrone, Chicago. The wives of both men live at Virginia Beach, Va.

Cardinal Spellman Arrives in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Francis Cardinal Spellman arrived in Tokyo Tuesday and said he will spend Christmas in Korea because "that's the place to be on Christmas."
He will fly to Korea today in Gen. John E. Hull's private plane for his third straight Christmas with U. S. troops.

Janesville Chimes to Give Concert

JANESVILLE — The tower chimes, a 40th anniversary gift of the congregation, will be heard in the first concert between 7 and 7:30 p. m. on Christmas eve from St. John's Lutheran Church.

TIP OF THE MORNING:
Stan Eberger, whose latest recorded satire is on Eartha Kitt, will have his own radio show over CBS-WKOW at 8:30 p. m., Fridays beginning Jan. 8.

NAMES IN THE NEWS: If you thought you heard a familiar contralto voice in the Keesler Air Force base presentation of "The Messiah" over NBC-WIBA on Saturday, you were right.

Mrs. Philip J. Lyon, formerly Irma Reynolds of Reedsburg, was the contralto soloist. A 1951 graduate of the University of Wisconsin, she has been heard here with the University's Cappella choir.

Elizabeth Scott will play opposite John Payne in "Desperate Men" for RKO Radio Pictures. She has just finished "Scalpel" in which she played opposite Charlton Heston.

Paul Donohue of WTMJ-TV, Milwaukee, won a McCall's "Mike" award for service to women with her series, "Your Family's Health."

Vincent Price began his 17th year in motion pictures with his role in "Dangerous Mission." He made his debut in 1937, co-starring with Constance Bennett.

Mrs. Lane, known as "England's Marilyn Monroe," has been signed for a role in "Susan Slept Here," starring Dick Powell and Debbie Reynolds.

Students of Virginia Lee Kehl and Leo Kehl have made many appearances at Christmas time programs at Washington orthopedic school, sponsored by the Shrine club, for the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at their annual program for the old folks of Dane county; at the Verona hospital; for the annual Christmas party for the painters local at the Labor temple; for the Midvale community party at Midvale school; for the Knights of Columbus Christmas party at St. Bernard's school auditorium; for the children of veterans at their annual Christmas party at the Veterans of Foreign Wars ballroom; and also at the new Verona home.

Accompanists on the various programs are Mrs. Dorothy Holm, Patricia Suter, Carol Sylvia, and Dave Ross.

CHRISTMAS ALBUM: More than 250,000 copies of the Columbia album, "Christmas with Arthur Godfrey and All the Little Godfreys," have been sold since its release in November.

The holiday collection, by the way, would make a fine last-minute Christmas gift for a Godfrey fan—or, for that matter, for anyone who loves Christmas music and doesn't object to Godfrey.

The set was made before Arthur's troubles with Julius La Rosa and Archie Bleyer, so both Julius and the Bleyer orchestra are heard along with Godfrey, Janette Davis, Halekio, Frank Parker, Marlon Marlowe, Lu Ann Simms, the Mariners, and the McGuire sisters.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

Today's hand was prepared for an "Olympic" contest in Italy last year. Such a contest consists of a series of prepared hands, in the course of which each player at the table gets several chances to make the star play.

The star play of an Olympic hand has to be unusual, against a player's normal instincts, but absolutely logical. The correct play by East in the hand shown today is a typical example.

The bidding and the opening lead are quite normal. East was the first trick, with the ace of hearts and should think before acting. The "normal" procedure is to return a low trump, but this will give South his contract.

If East returns a trump, South wins and draws another trump. Then he leads a diamond, forcing out East's king. No matter what East returns then, nothing can stop South from knocking out the other top diamond.

South can then get to dummy by ruffing a heart in order to discard two losing clubs on dummy's remaining diamonds.

If East stops to think after winning the first trick, he will see that South must have the top spades and the king of hearts for an opening bid. East can also see just how the play will go if he makes a "safe" return.

The best chance to defeat the contract consists of getting a club trick to add to the ace of hearts and the two top diamonds. And East's best chance to get a club trick consists in attacking the suit immediately, even though he must lead away from his king.

right up to dummy's ace-queen. When East makes this Olympic lead of a low club, dummy wins with the queen.

South draws two rounds of trumps and knocks out the king of diamonds. East next leads another club, forcing out dummy's ace. Declarer must force out the ace of diamonds, but East is then in position to cash a club trick, defeating the contract.

If you like this play as much as I do, take a word of advice. Don't go too far out of your way to make such a play at the bridge table. Once every five years it may pay you to lead from a king up to an ace-queen; the rest of the time it will cost you a trick.
