JACOBY: ON

especially to those four bridge both the ace and the jack. friends who work so hard for me all inrough the year: North,

Between us, I don't mind admitting that North has the easiest time of these four characters. He occasionally makes a fine bid, but he never has to play the hand or defend, and this makes him so lazy that some-times I think that he's forgotten how to play.

South is the hardest worker of the hand, and he gets very few easy contracts. Whenever he makes a mistake, as he occasionally does, he knows that I'm with no sympathy for his em barrassment.

West also has a heavy burden He must pick the opening lead every day, and sometimes the whole defense depends on his sagacity in this department of the game.

East usually has an easier job it's only the unusual hand in which he has to earn his keep. All four of these bridge char acters have to work today, even though it's Christmas Day, but
