Cardinal Spellman Aids ROK Rescue

EASTERN FRONT, Korea, Saturday (U.P.) — Francis Cardinal Spellman helped pull injured South Korean soldiers from an over turned jeep Friday after it skidded off an icy road.

The 64-year-old Catholic prelate left his own jeep and walked through snow and sleet to aid in rescuing the trapped ROKs, who were not seriously injured.

Their jeep overturned just in front of Cardinal Spellman's motor convoy.

Well bundled in Army winter clothes, the church leader insisted on making the four and a half-hour jeep trip in freezing weather after a Christmas Day fog grounded his light airplane.

He rode over rough, slippery roads to the U. S. 45th Division, but the weather and the accident delayed his arrival and a scheduled mass.

She's Learning to Walk Again

Joyce Young, 5, of Clinton, Ill., holds a doll as she walks in the nursery at Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in St. Louis, Mo. Supervisor Mrs. Mary Nickel looks on. Unable to walk since birth, Joyce a few days ago was fitted with a new brace which makes it possible for her to walk. (AP Wirephoto)

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby

Perhaps the day after Christmas is too soon to tell the brutal truth about life and bridge, but sooner or later the truth will out.

The vital message that I want to convey is that bad bridge players are not as successful as good bridge players.

If this bit of news fails to startle you, I'll add something to the story. A bad player will often suffer in a hand in which he has done nothing wrong—simply because he is a bad player. It's very sad, but I warned you the truth was brutal.

Take today's hand for example. West was known to be a bad player. In his hand he never made the wrong move, but he suffered just the same.

West opened the nine of clubs. This was the best possible opening lead. With any other opening, South would have had the chance to explore. South would draw trumps, try out the spades, lead towards the hearts, and so on.

If everything else failed, South might eventually fall back on a club finesse. The club opening lead, however, forced South to make up his mind at once for or against the club finesse.

If West had been a good player, South would have been very much in doubt about the right play. An expert West might open away from the king of clubs in the hope of steering South away from the finesse.

Since West was known to be a bad player, however, South had no doubts about who had the king of clubs.

South's only chance was to go up with the ace of clubs, get to his own hand with a trump, and lay down the faint hope of dropping the jack and 10.

This plan actually worked, and South's nine of spades became established. South had already discarded two clubs from the dummy on the king and queen of spades, and he was now able to discard dummy's last club on the nine of spades.

The odd were almost 20 to 1 against finding such luck in the spades, and South wouldn't have taken such a gamble if there had been any other hope. It was just hard luck for West that nobody would give him credit for making a tricky club lead simply because he was a bad player. It's a sad world, isn't it?

Harrison, Five Times Chicago Mayor, Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — Carter H. Harrison, 93, five times mayor of Chicago, died Friday.

Harrison, who served as Collector of Internal Revenue for the Chicago district from 1933 to 1944, died in his Chicago apartment at 2100 Lincoln Park West.

Harrison, a Democrat, bore the same name as his father, also mayor for five terms.

The younger Harrison was first elected to the chief city post in 1897 and retired after serving four consecutive two year terms. He returned to the office of mayor for a four-year term in 1911.
