Unlike most musical satirists, Miss Russell did not limit herself to burlesquing the greats and denuding the phonies of the concert and opera scenes. She took on folk singers, French horn players, square dance callers, and parlor sopranos as well.

Best of all was her riotous dissection of the "Ring" operas, from the first overture, consisting of "the chord of E flat major", to the finale of "Gotterdammerung," which she claimed was "where we are to the finale of "Gotterdammerung," which she claimed was "where we are to the finale of "Gotterdammerung," which she claimed was "where we are to the finale of "Gotterdammerung," which she claimed was "where we are to the finale of "Gotterdammerung," which she claimed was "TODAY'S OUOTE.
