Bill Douvan's SPOTLIGHT Ballet Theater

TIP OF THE MORNING: George Raft will return to a gangster role in his film comeback via "Rogue Cop," co-starring with Robert Taylor.

ALMOST EVERY visit of the Ballet Theater brings one new dancer to its audiences' attention. Thursday night's performance at the Parkway theater was in that tradition, and Lupe Serrano was the newcomer to win hearts.

Igor Youkevitch and John Kriza were back as the male stars and Melissa Hayden headed the feminine contingent. These and lesser lights gave us enough good dancing to overcome the absence of Alicia Alonso and Mary Ellen Moylan—almost.

This was Miss Serrano's second Madison appearance. She was here two years ago with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, dancing a single principal role. This time, she had more chances to show her art.

In solo, duo, and ensemble work in "Les Sylphides," she displayed an impeccable technique and considerable style, but appeared somewhat cold in contrast with the warmth and humanness of her partner, Kriza.

For "Gala Performance," this very appearance of coldness was just the thing, for she played the stern, egotistical Russian ballerina to the hilt, with unexpected coyness giving the role its fillip.

In the same ballet, Barbara Lloyd was her usual delightful self as the bouncy, flirtatious French girl, and Lillian Lanese burlesqued the unbending, deadpan Italian school equally well.

Kriza, best known for such light works as "Fancy Free," danced expertly in the classic style in "Les Sylphides," bowing nevertheless before the virtuosity of the equalled craftsmanship which Youkevitch showed us once more in the "Black Swan" pas de deux from "Swan Lake."

Miss Hayden, who can be regal (as in "The Black Swan"), gave a touch of emotional acting to her role in "The Combat," a new ballet over which there will be arguments for weeks. Here she was paired with Kriza in a work which moved unevenly from the classic to the contemporary and back again.

It was exciting and moving in spots, but despite the admirable handling of the difficult roles by Kriza and Miss Hayden, the fantastic costuming, the surrealistic backdrop, and the savage music, it seemed a long time making its point.

Ensemble work was first-rate in "Les Sylphides," in which it can make or break the pure beauty of the piece, and the girls and boys played "Gala Performance" with bright humor.

Note must be taken, also of Ruth Ann Koesun's "Prelude" in "Les Sylphides" and of Adriano Vitale and Eric Braun as the ballerina's partners in "Gala Performance."

CONCERT: Conductor Frederic Hilary of the choir of Trinity Lutheran church has announced this program for their concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the church.

Combined choirs: Portions of "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew," Bach.
 High school choir: "Glory to the Father," Palestrina; "Gloria to the Lambs," Dett; "My God and I," Sergei; "This Joyful Easteride," arranged from "David's Psalmen (1685)" by Robert

Now Mindy is back in town again at the Coconut Grove. A refreshing artist who knows her way with a song, producers once more are looking at her.

"But nothing will come of it," she moans. "One told me I looked like a young Zsa Zsa Gabor."

And you know the kind of publicity Zsa Zsa and Rubino are getting these days.
