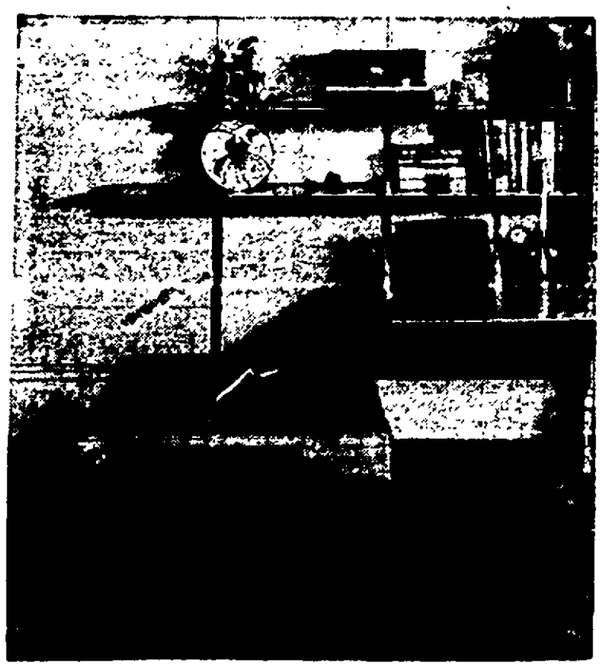
You Can Make Plastic Cushions

Use cording foot attachment to bind cording to plastic cushion cover. Use a fine needle, and adjust for light tension.



Sturdy, and requiring a minimum of care, plastic fabric covering on a foam rubber cushion makes a comfortable topping for a black metal bench. You'll get added pleasure from its use because you fashioned it yourself.

Measure carefully before cutting fabric for your cushion. Use an accurate tape, and be sure that scissors are SHARP.

New Coverings Are Easy to Work With, Give Long Wear

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Need an extra cushion that is bright, but practical? Perhaps the outdoor swing or chair rates a face-lifting or the top of bench or window seat could be made more comfortable if a pad were used.

In either case you might consider one of the new, bright-colored plastic fabrics for the covering. Cutting and sewing the smooth nonwoven material isn't as baffling or as difficult as you might suppose, if you bear in mind a few basic points.

A practical-minded interior decorator, Pat Harvey, often uses plastic fabrics, particularly where ease of maintenance and provision for strenuous use are important. I admired a bright-red topping on a black, wrought iron bench, and Miss Harvey told me how she did it. Local sewing center experts can give you detailed help if you need it.

First, remember that plastic fabrics are usually firm and heavy, so they lend themselves best to tailored effects. They have no grain and may be cut in any direction. Strips for a corded edge are cut from the straight of the material, since there is no bias.

Second, the smallest hole will encourage a rip. Never pin or paste plastic pieces. Mark seam lines with chalk. Baste with tape. Don't try to press out wrinkles; the iron's heat may melt the fabric. Hang the fabric over a door to remove wrinkles. When cutting the plastic, hold pattern pieces in place with a weight.

Third, when stitching plastic on the machine, use a fine needle, mercerized thread, light tension, light pressure and a long stitch.

Sewing center teachers assure us machine attachments may be used. To use the hemmer, thread a hand needle and draw the point of the plastic into the scroll, pulling with the thread. No need to fold edges under when using the binder, as plastic doesn't fray. Sprinkling fabric surface with talcum powder gives the gatherer or ruffler a better grip.

In the case of the cushion, however, the cording foot is the only attachment needed, and this is used as if you were stitching ordinary fabrics.

Miss Harvey's cushion has a four-inch-thick stuffing of foam rubber, made by gluing two pieces two inches thick together. The cushion is 24 inches square so that two pieces of plastic 25 inches square were cut to allow for seams. The boxing strip is 96 inches long (you may need to piece to get the necessary length), and five inches wide.

Enough cording for top and bottom is assembled from straight strips of the fabric.

Stitch cording to top and boxing strips on all four sides. Attach bottom section to three sides of boxing strip. Trim seam allowance to one-fourth inch and trim corners. Turn right-side-out, gently poking out corners. Sew on a strip of snaps on each edge of the opening and insert the foam rubber cushion. Snap together.

SALAD POISONS 60

OSNABRUECK, Germany, Aug. 8 —(AP) Sixty employes of the city labor office were stricken with food poisoning and rushed to a hospital tonight. Health officials blamed potato salad which had been served from a zinc tub.

RHEE LEAVES U. S., HOPEFUL ON UNITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8—(AP) President Syngman Rhee of South Korea left for home today, confident that the United States and Korea can bring about the unification of his homeland.

The 79-year-old leader of Korea boarded a Pan American plane for Hawaii. He will remain there until Wednesday, then continue homeward.

Before he entered the plane, Rhee read a statement in which he thanked the people of the United States for their reception of him and his party.

"I am returning to Korea immensely encouraged, and I shall be able to tell my people that the United States is standing with them in their fight for a united, free and Democratic country," he said.

"My talks with President Eisenhower and other officials of the American government have been fully satisfactory, and the result will become apparent in the due course of time. In fact, the U. S. government and people deserve and have the undying thanks of Korea for what they have done, and for what they are doing, and for what they will do in the future.

"It is also gratifying to observe the increasing American awareness to the dire menace that communism holds for this mighty nation and for all the other countries of the free world.

"It is obvious that such understanding must precede the taking of resolute steps to stop the communists and then to drive them out of the territories that they have seized by force.

"I have every confidence that standing squarely together, the United States and Korea can bring about the unification of Korea and lead the world toward a permanent peace of justice and freedom."

During his brief visit to the United States, President Rhee went to Washington to appeal for aid in halting the spread of communism in Asia.
