POLIO, MEASLES UP IN STATE LAST YEAR HARTFORD, Jan. 3-(AP) The State Health department reported today that one child-killing disease has been virtually wiped out in Connecticut, but another last year showed an 18 per cent increase over 1953. There was but a single non-fatal case of diphtheria in this state in 1954, as compared with 1,731 cases and 324 deaths in 1951. The Health department said in a year-end summary of communicable diseases. Polio-myelitis cases, however, jumped to a total of 452 in 1954, as compared with 370 for the previous year. Diphtheria has been controlled by an immunizing agent, while medical science still seeks one for polio. Up to now, there were 1954 cases of measles to a total of 3,073, as compared with 1,669 for 1953. The last full week of the year produced 603 new cases of this disease, the department said. MELTING POINT The melting point of carbon is above 6,000 degrees Fahrenheit, highest of the known elements. At that temperature, carbon changes to vapor without going through a liquid stage.
