Bilious Attacks

In many cases, the bilious attack is the indirect result of constipation. There is a good flow of the bile and it discharges into the intestine in the normal way, but there is an impaction caused by constipation and the bile flows back into the stomach, there to make its presence known in the form of a bilious attack. Victims of bilious attacks after suffering for years and trying every offered form of relief, have found that it removed the CAUSE, and gave Nature a chance to restore normal health.
