Around-About Bridgeport

By WILLIAM LAMALE

Old love letters, wedding licenses, birth certificates and other sentimental and valued papers no longer need be preserved between the pages of the family album or a heavy book.

They can be shielded from the aging process by being sealed in a microscopically thin envelope of clear plastic.

The same treatment also has been successfully applied by Wilbur Miller and "Charlie" Brown to four-leaf clovers, locks of hair, commissions, pressed flowers, Valentines, newspaper clippings and mounted butterflies.

Wilbur and Charlie have gone into the business of preserving things for posterity.

Of course, the idea of laminating personally valuable papers in plastic isn't new. What they hope to do, locally at least, is to extend the application of the principle and lock up against time a wider variety of things in the transparent shield.

In 18 months or so of operating from a converted sign painter's stand at 670 Brewster street, Black Rock, they have experimented with their medium and found it suited for preserving indefinitely such diverse items as wedding photographs and cable tags for utility companies.

If the idea of mothballing by plastic catches on, they expect to preserve such commonplace papers as grade cards, diplomas, Western Union messages, letters of recommendation, original records of business transactions, etc.

WILBUR WAS putting the plastic jacket over some snapshots of a fisherman's proud catch. (The angler had decided to do it this way instead of hanging up fish heads to show posterity.)

Over the print he placed a film of Vinylite plastic so thin you could hardly see it edgeways; on the back went a sheet of heavier plastic, colored and decorated. Wilbur stuck this "sandwich" into a press and pumped the handle until the pressure indicated 200 pounds to the square inch.

Live steam generated electrically, he said, heated the mirror smooth surfaces of the press to a temperature of 300 degrees, causing the plastic to fuse and driving out all air and moisture in the sandwich.

The process is controlled by an automatic timer, so as to avoid overcooking, preservative and subject.

Their press has a bed measuring 12 by 18 inches, so they've been able to put the plastic envelope around some fairly big items.

To make things a bit fancy they have succeeded in pressing designs into the plastic backing. Those that seem to be the favorite for posterity are imitation leather, wood grain, wrinkle finish and a pleasing geometric arrangement of circles and squares. (The latter design was cut out of the bottom of a cake baking tin.)

The backings are available in a rainbow of colors, Wilbur said. For billet-doux and other tender messages he suggests a shade of lavender.

PREPARING things for posterity utilizes the combination of talents possessed by the partners in the "Plastic Shack."

Wilbur, who lives at 163 Mill Plain road, Fairfield, used to be a color pressman and cabinetmaker. Charlie, a native of New Hampshire, sold and serviced indoor shuffleboards. He still has the hobby of making inlaid designs in wood. Until their business expands further, both are employed in a Fairfield industry.

What attracted me about their plastic preservative is that it's supposed to last "forever." How long is forever?

Well, in this case, Wilbur figured that nine hundred to a thousand years would be a satisfactory span. Testing for some of the hazards of time, they have found their plastic sandwich impervious to air, fire and freezing. They pickled it in sulphuric acid and found the plastic unharmed. Moreover their plastic seal is waterproof and non-corrosive in sea water.

Wear from even daily handling is so slight that the "forever" claim is practically valid, Wilbur said.

It should be almost impossible to lose the game contract in today's hand. South can make 12 tricks if he decides to set up dummy's spades, and he can surely make 10 tricks if he embarks on a really thorough cross-ruff. When the hand was actually played, however, one of the best players of the country found a way to go down at four hearts.

West opened the king of clubs and continued with another club. South ruffing. Declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond in dummy, ruffed another club in his hand, ruffed another diamond in dummy, and then made the mistake of cashing the ace of trumps. He should have tackled the spades in order to ruff still another diamond with dummy's ace of trumps.

Returning to the actual play, West dropped the queen of hearts on dummy's ace. This false card cost nothing, of course, but it had the effect of throwing South off the track.

Now declarer took the ace of spades and ruffed a spade, after which he led a fourth diamond to East's king. West discarded the jack of spades on this trick, and East promptly returned the king of spades.

There was still a way for South to recover. He should have discarded his last diamond, allowing East to hold the king of spades. If East then led the ace of clubs, South would ruff low; and if East, instead, led his trump, South would put up the king. Either way, South would have won the last two tricks to make the contract.

As it happened, South was intent on nothing to his doom. When East led the king of spades, South ruffed with the nine. West overruffed with the ten of hearts and returned a club to force out declarer's last trump. East, much to his astonishment, took the last trick with the six of hearts, thus setting the contract.

CARD Sense

Q—With neither side vulnerable, the bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	1 Spade	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ K J 8 7 5 ♥ 6 2 ♦ 9 7 4 2 ♣ 5 3

What do you do?

A—Pass. You couldn't double one spade yourself, because this was the only contract you could defend against. You are delighted, however, to convert partner's takeout double into a penalty double.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold:

♠ K J 8 5 ♥ 6 2 ♦ 9 7 4 2 ♣ K 5 3

What do you do?

HOLIDAY AFFAIR CONDUCTED BY DAR

"If we can live up to the heritage of the Declaration of Independence, we can survive the threat of communism" Brig. Gen. Edwin N. Clark of Aspetuck, said yesterday at the 61st annual Independence Day exercises conducted by the Eunice Dennie Burr chapter, DAR, on the Fairfield Town hall green.

More than 100 were in attendance for the program which also was highlighted by the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Rep. Norman K. Parsells of Fairfield.

Talking on the responsibilities of our country in today's world, Gen. Clark said the maintenance of our freedom and liberties depended not on what Russia or any other country might do but upon the discharge of our obligations to live up to our heritage.

"This is testing time," Gen. Clark asserted. "What people are going to do in maintaining these principles on which this country was founded, is of the utmost importance."

Veterans' organizations, the George A. Smith post, American Legion, and the Sgt. Thomas J. Nelson post, VFW, and their auxiliaries participated in the program along with the Children of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Elting F. Deyo, regent of the DAR chapter, made the address of welcome and introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Roger W. Hartt led the Pledge of Allegiance, and group singing was led by Chauncey Bush accompanied by the George A. Smith post, Legion band, directed by Michael German.

Greetings were extended by First Selectman Dimill L. Kinnie and thanks to various persons assisting in arranging the program were given by Mrs. Carl J. Berg, chairman of the exercises.

The Rev. W. C. Kinsolving of St. Michael's Episcopal church offered the invocation and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Alexander Babos of the Hungarian Evangelical and Reformed church.

Assisting Mrs. Berg with arrangements were Mrs. Henry H. Rooske, Mrs. Earl R. Morin, Mrs. Earl E. Yahn, Mrs. Hartt and Mrs. Charles H. Weber Jr.

WOMAN WHO KILLED MATE TRIES SUICIDE

LOUISA, Ky., July 4 — (AP) A middle-aged woman, accused of killing her husband then severing his legs so the body would fit a grave, attempted to take her own life yesterday.

Jailer John Holbrook said Mrs. Garnet Stucker was found with cuts on her arms and throat when he entered her cell yesterday morning.

Holbrook said the 42-year-old woman used a piece of broken glass to inflict the wounds.

"After promising not to try it again, she was returned to her cell," the jailer said.

Last Thursday, said chief deputy Edward Fyffe, the woman admitted shooting her 59-year-old crippled husband, hitting him over the head later "to keep him from suffering," then hacking off his legs with a hatchet "to make him fit" a hole he dug.

Mrs. Stucker charged with murder, claimed mistreatment at the hands of her husband, Estell, brought on the slaying.
