

TURNING THE DIALS

BY FRED H. RUSSELL

James Cagney, the screen star and an enthusiastic practicing conservationist with farms at Millbrook, N. Y., and Martha's Vineyard, Mass., will be narrator and guide in a new 13-week NBC radio series to be broadcast under the auspices of the Conservation Foundation. The series, titled "Today and Tomorrow," will start Sunday, Feb. 19, over WRCA from 6:35 to 7 p.m. There will be 13 true stories of communities and industries that are facing up to vital conservation problems—of water, soil, forests, or irreplaceable resources such as petroleum.

Time-recorded on location in various parts of the United States and Canada, the broadcasts will utilize the voices of persons directly concerned with the problem.

Bernard Baruch, elder statesman and advisor to Presidents, will strike the keynote in a spoken forward. "Since our real wealth is drawn from the earth, in always limited quantities, as minerals, food, water, wood and wildlife," Mr. Baruch will say, "destruction of the earth's surface and waste of its products have a cogent meaning that touches the life, today and tomorrow, of every human being."

The first broadcast will be "The Fishkill Story." It will show how, on 1,000 acres of depleted and grown-over hill and farmland in Dutchess county, N. Y., the New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund in creating not only a camp for the conservation of boys and girls from slum areas of New York City but also a model of good land conservation in miniature—with a dairy farm, properly plowed and pastured; a reservoir for water storage and flood control, and a forest area that will be farmed rather than cut over.

Weeks to come will bring a forest story from Bogalusa, La.; a petroleum story from east Texas; a story of urban encroachment on farmlands in California; a flood-control story from Kaw River Valley, Kansas; an anti-stream-pollution story from Kalamazoo, Mich., and a Canadian story telling the battle of the hudson in the forest of New Brunswick and Quebec.

The Conservation Foundation is an independent, non-profit organization, chartered in 1948, devoted to pursuit and distribution of knowledge about conservation in relation to present and future human welfare.

Heifetz Soloist

A performance of the Beethoven "Violin Concerto" with Jascha Heifetz as soloist will be the highlight of the CBS radio broadcast of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The current Philharmonic broadcast will be Mr. Heifetz' last before a Spring European concert tour. He has announced that next season he will take a sabbatical leave of absence from public appearances.

Mr. Mitropoulos will open the broadcast program with a performance of the Haydn "Drum Roll" Symphony in E flat. The symphony gets its name from the opening sustained trill on E flat, which sounds the tonic tone of the whole work and simultaneously acts as a command to listening attention.

In honor of Lincoln's birthday, James Fasset, the music commentator, will present a feature, "Sacred to the Memory of Amos Fortune," about an 18th century slave who purchased his freedom, moved to Jaffrey, N. H., and became one of the town's leading citizens.
