

Airwaves Boast of 'Different' Shows

'Tis refreshing to write today's radio column after writing of drab air shows most of the past week. Today's menu reads like a eight-course meal with everything from "soup to nuts."

Musical programs continue to dominate the stage but there is enough of other types of shows to satisfy all. Drama, variety, and discussion programs are well distributed throughout the day.

The airwaves boast of two new "different" shows today. A program designed to bring out the hidden talent in American folksong composition and "The Farmer Takes the Mike," a half-hour planned to help the agriculturalist, are the two shows making their initial debut today.

Today's topnotchers classified:

Music

10:30 a. m. — Air Music Hall (WENR): the debut of the Music Hall String quartet.

1 p. m. — Everybody's Music (WBBM): the CBS starts a hunt to uncover hidden talent in American music.
