

Variety Of Talent Will Be Heard On "We, The People"

Richest Poet In World, Originator Of Jazz And A Modern Jonah Included On List Of Heatter's Guests

The richest poet in the world, the originator of jazz, and a modern Jonah who went underwater with a whale, are included among the guests who will tell their experiences on Gabriel Heatter's "We, The People" Tuesday at 9:00 p. m., over WABC.

One of the few outstanding poets to be a great financial success is Edgar Guest, who will tell Gabriel Heatter an astounding story of his rise to fame.

The originator of jazz who will be heard on the program is "Jelly Roll" Morton, composer of the "Dark Town Strutters Ball." He claims to have played jazz as early as 1902 in New Orleans.

Arthur B. Cotnoir, one-time harpooner for the whaling schooner "Valkyria" out of New Bedford, Mass., will tell how in 1912 when harpooning a whale he fell out of his boat and on to the whale's back. He became emeshed in the line and when the whale submerged so did he.

The famous Paul Taylor choir, graduates of Bing Crosby's program, will be guests on the weekly Fibber McGee and Molly broadcast Tuesday at 9:30 p. m. over WEAFL. They will provide background accompaniment to Don Novis' solo — "Goodbye My Love." Fibber and Molly will enjoy a real estate boom which hits Wistful Vista and the Billy Mills orchestra will play "Who" and "Put That Down in Writing."

Judy Garland will sing "I Didn't Know What Time It Was," from the picture, "Too Many Girls," on the weekly Bob Hope broadcast Tuesday at 10:00 p. m. over WEAFL. Bob will contemplate the problems of house building and the Six Hits and a Miss, with Skinny Ennis, will sing a special arrangement of "Rancho Grande."

Jimmy Durante is in a fair way to becoming a permanent guest of Bob Benchley on the Melody and Madness program over WJZ. The nation's most notorious schnozzle will put in another appearance on the show Tuesday at 9:00 p. m. Benchley and Durante will join forces for some high-toned burlesquing of a number of popular radio programs, with Benchley in the role of a listener who faithfully follows many radio shows, and Durante supplying the "romantic interest." Lennie Hayton and his orchestra will feature new swing tunes.

Night Party, will originateeecta Walter O'Keefe's Tuesday Night Party will originate in New York, 8:30 p. m. over WABC, instead of Boston as previously announced, with vocalist Mary Martin making the trek to Boston alone to open in her new musical, "Nice Goin'."

Johnny Green's swing version of the favorite classic, "Ciribiribin" will be played by the orchestra during the Johnny Presents program Tuesday, at 8:00 p. m., over WEAFL. Glenn Cross, baritone, will sing the new ballad, "I Didn't Know What Time It Was,"
