

Today's Radio Highlights

Our town's Junior League takes part in a broadcast quiz to aid the District of Columbia Tuberculosis Association. Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard, Mrs. F. Eerhart Haynes and Mrs. E. K. Morris are the mental martyrs—WJSV, 9 a. m.

An hour of Rimsky-Korsakoff music is aired by the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music orchestra—WJSV, 11:05 a. m.

"Democracy in Social Crisis" is the subject on the American Education Forum arranged by Stanford University and the University of California—WMAL, 12 noon.

Mrs. Fred W. Pennoyer, jr., is guest speaker of the Daughters of the American Revolution program—WOL, 12:45 p. m.

"Boris Godunoff," Moussorgsky's colorful opera, receives its second performance of the season on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, with Ezio Pinza, basso, in the title role. Irra Petina, soprano; Marita Farrell, soprano; Charles Kullman, tenor; Kerstin Thorborg, contralto, head the cast and Ettore Panizza will conduct—WMAL, 1:55 p. m.

Vert Brodsky, celebrated pianist, begins a new series over the Columbia network emphasizing contemporary music. This afternoon's highlight: Three parts of Maurice Ravel's "Le Tombeau de Couperin," heard less often in its original piano form than in the later orchestra arrangement the composer made from it—WJSV, 3:55 p. m.

Russel Wright, modern furniture expert, describes a "Modern Design for Living" on "What's Art to Me"—WJSV, 6:30 p. m.

Prof. Pitman Benjamin Potter, American expert in international law, speaks from Geneva, where the League of Nations Council is to convene earlier in the day to consider Finland's demand that Russia be branded an aggressor nation—WJSV, 6:45 p. m.

Anacostia Junior and Senior High Schools contribute to The Post-WJSV Radio Workshop—WJSV, 7 p. m.