

Today's Radio Highlights

Forty mixed voices from the Julliard Institute of Musical Art sing a group of traditional Christmas carols—WOL, 11:15 a. m.

"Christmas I Have Known," the Traveling Chef includes his adventures as a background for recipes learned on sea and in foreign lands—WMAL, 11:30 a. m.

"Women in the Law" is the eighth in the Gallant American Women series—WMAL, 2 p. m.

New program: "The Court of Missing Heirs" will concern itself with curious real-life stories in which fortunes have been left to unknown legatees. The American Bar Association and the Federal Bureau of Investigation have indorsed the unique idea of attempting to trace the heirs—WJSV, 8:30 p. m.

Christopher Morley, whose "Kitty Foyle" is a leading best-seller, returns to Information Please and is joined by Albert Spaulding, who leaves his violin home for the evening. John Kieran and F. P. A. will also be on hand—WMAL, 8:30 p. m.

Deems Taylor brings a child prodigy; Meredith Nicholson reminisces about James Whitcomb Riley; Mary Martin tells of her first film and Charles W. Howard reveals how he happened to found the Santa Claus school—WJSV, 9 p. m.

The Mozart Concerto Series continues with Alfred Wallenstein conducting Concerto No. 13, Nadia Reisenberg at the piano—WOL, 9:30 p. m.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Cuban Chamber of Commerce, speaks on "Cuban-American Relations"—WMAL, 10 p. m.

"The Childhood of Christ," the Christmas oratorio by Rector Berlioz, is aired from Montreal, with Germaine Bruere, soprano; Raoul Jobin, tenor, and Lionel Daunais, basso, as soloists—WOL, 10 p. m.

Moral rearmament is praised by Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, speaking on the wide-spread movement from Washington over a Columbia network—WJSV, 10:45 p. m.