Based on the experiences of three youngsters who joined the gold rush, only to have their holdings washed out by floods, the story describes their attempts to celebrate Christmas by exchanging their remaining possessions, and their

The final chapter of the Power-Dickens case, in which Sid (Little Caesar) Power celebrated New Year's by robbing a huge Boston oil plant, will be dramatized on Gang Busters Saturday at 8 p. m. over WABC. A police official closely associated with the case will relate details of the story to Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf.

During the ten months of Power's criminal rampage, he succeeded in involving several otherwise harmless individuals. There was young Bill Dickens, who met death at the hands of the police; a girl friend who agreed to work with him in exchange for a trip to the Riviera, and finally, there was Melvin Jacquin. It was with Jacquin that Power performed his bold crime, the robbing of seven late Massachusetts oil plants.

ton over WEFM Saturday at 8:30 p. m. He will team up with Harry Herlihy and Jay G. Flippo in the punch-line department.

The Moro natives of the Philippines Islands, threatening a revolution, kidnapped hundreds of American lives, and government officials need Mars, the first a man to arrive in the Philippines, to try to awe and frighten the native inhabitants with his spectacled but flying. It was a dangerous undertaking. Mars realized that he would mean death at the hands of the Moros, so whom human killing was a religion people. In a thriling concluding

The Westerners, instrumental and vocal groups, and Bobby Hastings, 12 year-old boy soprano, will help the National Barn Dance hold their annual Christmas party Saturday, at 9:00 p. m. over WJZ. The usual gang including Henry Burr, Johnny Burke, Joe Parsons, the Hoosier Hot Shots and Joe Kelley, in c., also will be heard as the Westerners, Barn Dance originals, celebrate their homecoming.
