

Court Of Missing Heirs To Offer Fortunes To Several

Helen Jepson And Buddy Clark Teamed On Musical Americana Broadcast At 8 P. M.
Tuesday

If Georgia Mansfield, last heard from in La Grange, Ill., listens to the Court of Missing Heirs, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. over CBS, she will find herself named as heir to the $23,000 estate of her father, Mortimer Mansfield, who died last month in Cherokee, Okla.

Mary, Margaret and Katherine Shea, if they listen to the same program, will hear themselves named as heirs to the $5500 estate of their brother and cousins respectively, Ed-when last heard from lived in New York City. If your name is Coughlin, listen to the same program, it may be you're heir to the $2,000 estate of William Coughlin.

Helen Jepson, one of the few opera stars who includes glamour in her repertoire, and Buddy Clark, top-ranking radio baritone, will be the singing guests featured with Raymond Paige and his orchestra on the Westinghouse Musical Americana program on Tuesday at 8 p. m. over NBC Blue and Red stations.

A Boston lighthouse keeper's son, Maurice Babcock, Jr., who has unearthed a document which, experts say, is the original copy of Benjamin Franklin's first literary work, a ballad titled "The Lighthouse Tragedy," will tell how he discovered the 175-year-old manuscript when he joins Gabriel Heatter's other guests on "We, The People," Tuesday, Aug. 20, over the WABC-Columbia Network, at 8:00 p. m.
