

Alice Faye, Edward Arnold Guests On Radio Theatre

Stars To Appear In Dramatization Of "Lillian Russell;" Margaret Speaks Soloist Of Wallenstein Concert Program Over WEA F

The glamor era of Broadway at the turn of the century will be brought to life again in the Radio Theatre when Alice Faye stars in "Lillian Russell" on Monday. Miss Faye will be joined by Edward Arnold when the full-hour dramatic program is presented over WABC at 9 p. m.

Based on the life story of the world-famous ballad singer, "Lillian Russell" was a successful movie last spring. In the radio version, Alice Faye again takes the title-role with Edward Arnold portraying the fabulous Diamond Jim Brady.

"Mi Chiamano Mimi," musical autobiography of the heroine of Puccini's "La Boheme," will be sung by Margaret Speaks, beloved American soprano during her concert Monday over WEA F. Miss Speaks also will sing "I'm the Echo" by Kern, "Just a-Wearyin' For You" by Bond, and "Lover" by Rodgers.

Carnation Contented program will salute the petroleum industry on Monday at 10 p. m., over WEA F.

Under the direction of Percy Faith, the orchestra will present "Night and Day," "Cocktails for Two" and the chorus will be featured in "Great Day," "Star Dust," and "Sing You Sinners."

Lullaby Lady Louise King will sing "Sweet and Low" and Tenor Larry Taylor will present "Only Forever."

The Voder a weird machine developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories, which actually talks like a man—or a woman, child or grizzly bear, for that matter—will be explained and demonstrated by Dr. Orestes H. Caldwell and S. S. A. Watkins, director of the A. T. & T. exhibit at the World's Fair, during Caldwell's radio magic program over WJZ Monday at 7:15 p. m.

At least once a month James Melton sings the one song most requested by listeners in that space of time. This month's dial selection is Schubert's immortal "Serenade" and Melton will sing it on his "Telephone Hour" over WEA F Monday at 8 p. m. He will also be heard in a duet with Francia White singing "C'est le Dieu de la Jeunesse." Donald Voorhees and the orchestra will offer "Finlandia," "Little Gray Home in the West" and "Yours Is My Heart Alone."

The Bumsteads dress up as a gangster and his moll when Blondie masquerades Monday at 7:30 p. m. over WABC. Dagwood carries a water pistol, is mistaken for a big middlewestern gangster, captures a rival gangster from the east and is almost arrested as a filling station bandit in this hilarious sketch which co-stars Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake.
