

Life Of Joseph Stalin To Be Dramatized Over Radio

Russian Dictator To Be Second World Leader Mentioned In "These Four Men" Series Over WEAF At 6 P. M. Sunday

Iosiph Dzhugashvili, otherwise known as Joseph Stalin, premier of the Soviet Union, general secretary of the Russian Communist Party's Central Committee, and People's Commissar for National Affairs, will be the second world leader to have his life dramatized in the "These Four Men" series over WEAF at 6 p. m.

Saucy Charlie McCarthy will eat very lightly, if at all, just before the Chase and Sanborn show broadcast of Sunday, Sept. 14 when glamorous auburn-haired Rita Hayworth of the movies is due for the second time this year to drop in for the half-hour of festivities airing at 7:00 p. m. over WEAF.

Bobby Jones, greatest golfer in the history of the ancient and honorable Scotch pastime, will be the guest of Bill Stern on the latter's "Sports Newsreel of the Air," Sunday at 8:45 p. m. over WJZ.

Having just returned from a Mexican vacation, Andre Kostelanetz introduces a song he heard there, a bolero called "To Know How to Lose," by Dominuez, on his "Pause That Refreshes" program over WABC Sunday, at 7 p. m. Guest artist with Kostelanetz will be Larry Adler, harmonic virtuoso. Kostelanetz and his 45-piece orchestra will also be heard in three Negro spirituals with choral singing.

Kenny Leighton and his orchestra will be aboard the Fitch Bandwagon for its weekly parade over the NBC-Red Network, Sunday, at 6:30 p. m.

"Second Guessers," radio program dedicated to that great fraternity of armchair football coaches, hot leaguers and Saturday night quarterbacks who play each week's football game all over again on Sunday morning, will make its 1941 debut on Sunday, at 11 a. m., over WEAF. Each week thereafter during the football season six outstanding authorities on college football — three coaches and three sports writers — will comment on top ranking grid-iron battles of the previous day.

Boys To Open Campaign For Y. M. Members

The membership campaign in the Boy's division of the Y. M. C. A. with a goal of 100 members will open Sept. 15. The campaign is being organized around the idea of a "Big Ten" football competition. The boy workers will be "playing" for Ohio State, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Purdue and Indiana.

Each boy participant is on the "reserves" until he brings a new member to the "Y" and he then makes the "varsity" team. Those who fail to make the "varsity" by Sept. 23 will be dropped from the squad. Merle Ramseyer, boy's secretary, who is directing the campaign announced Saturday that the following "coaches" had been secured to direct the work of the teams: James Bretlinger, Bernard Roush, James Vogelsang, Larry Board, Martin Winemiller and James Rex.

Large score boards have been placed in the boy's lobby where all can see the progress of the contest. One string feature of the contest requires that a boy not only secure a new member but that he bring him down to the "Y" and help him get acquainted and started in the classes. The following boys are now out after "varsity" berths:

Bob Stebbibs, Teddy Godfrey, Ronald Tompkins, Brocky Swisher, Ned Benedict, Richard Watkins, Jack Harmon, Eimer Schottelkorb, Paul Sprague, Billy Sharp, Billy Parker, Ronald Benedetto, Billy Patterson, Carl Patten, Carl Boy-
