

Famous Jury Trials Will Reveal Card Sharper Tricks

Billy Mills To Salute George M. Cohan On Fibber
McGee Spot; Horace Heidt To Feature
New War Song

Most people don't discuss gambling losses, but when Sam Parkes lost his life's savings in a poker game with some political workers, he appealed to the District Attorney. As a result, Herman Waters, alleged head of a group of political card sharps, was brought to trial on a technical charge of larceny by trick.

Details of the ring's operations, preying on people seeking jobs and contracts thru their influence, will be revealed in a dramatization of the case to be heard as the "Famous Jury Trials" offering Tuesday, at 9 p. m., over the Blue network.

Directed by William Rousseau, a cast of noted radio actors will be heard.

Billy Mills will salute George M. Cohan on the Fibber McGee and Molly program at 9:30 p. m. over WEAf, when he features an orchestral medley including "You're A Grand Old Flag," "Stand Up and Fight," and "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy." The King's Men will sing the thrilling new patriotic number, "The Bombadier Song." Fibber McGee and Molly and other residents of 79 Wistful Vista will be on hand with the laughs.

Latest of the war song hits, "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland," will be a Steve Merrill vocal as a highlight of Horace Heidt's "Treasure Chest" program from Minneapolis over WEAf at 8:30 p. m. Other songs are "Somebody Else Is Taking My Place" by the Trumpeteers, "Rose Marie," a piano solo by Frankie Cale, "I Threw a Kiss In the Ocean" by Donna and her son Juans, and "University of Minnesota Rouser Song" by Whistler Fred Lowery and the ensemble. In addition, Heidt will interview various unusual guests.

Something Verboten: When "Hobby Lobby" on last Saturday played host to a talking bird May 30 there were huzahs from press and public alike, but little did anyone know that Dave Elman was holding his breath for fear the bird would spill some choice ad libs. Spotting a gob in the audience the bird cried: "Shove off, sailor, let's get a couple of—", but whether it was to be drinks or dames no one will ever know. His owner had promptly muzzled him!

Faith It's Wonderful! Dave Elman, emcee of "Hobby Lobby" had such faith in one of his hobbyists—a sling-shot champ who shoots a cigaret from a girl's mouth—that when it came time for this stunt in rehearsal, Dave's wife volunteered as "the target!"
