man with a little black bag and an order to rush to a hospital gets into her cab. What happens after that is sheer adventure on a whodunnit scale.

But Rosemary comes out all right and over WEAf on Saturday, July 11, at 8 p. m. when the program changes time, she gets another wish when she attends a fashionable art gallery showing and rubs elbows with metropolis celebrities.

Henry Aldrich and his partner in trouble, Homer Brown, start forth into the world in search of a business career, but end up behind the ax handle during the broadcast of The Aldrich Family, starring Ezra Stone, over the WEAF network at 8:30 p. m.

The two ambitious young men, concluding that they can't make that first million dollars by mowing the home lawn at 15 cents per hour, hear rumors of big money in the neighboring town, Abbott City.
Falling for the impression that the grass is greener in an ax handle factory than in his own front yard, Henry turns over his local enterprises to Willie, at a loss; acquires a pair of overalls, and, with Homer, sets forth to Abbott City at 5 a. m., in quest of fortune, if not fame.

By the time the two boys have allowed their optimism to grow unchecked, their financial castles in the air would put a Rockefeller or a Morgan to shame.

Danny Seymour announces The Aldrich Family, and Jack Miller directs the orchestra for the Clifford Goldsmith comedy.

Following the July 2 broadcast, the Aldrich Family will take a five-week vacation, returning to the WEAf net in the same Thursday night spot Aug. 13.
