

"Case Of Western Killer" Is Listed For Gang Busters

Frank Munn To Sing Four Current Favorites As His "Waltz Time" Solos Offering
Friday

Conclusion of the two-week dramatization of the "Case of the Western Killer" will take place on the Gang Busters program Friday at 9 p. m. over WJZ. The first episode traced the killer's early career of murder and crime, and his sentence to die in the electric chair after he shot and killed three prison guards.

The final chapter will portray in all its thrilling details, how the killer escaped from an "escape-proof" cell in murderers' row. He managed to get out by feigning illness. Using the unarmed guard as a shield, and wielding the guard's revolver, he picked up two other guards, and marched them into the warden's office. After locking the warden up, he released six other prisoners.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 14

Stealing an auto, the seven desperados crashed thru a barricade but only two of them the ringleader included were shot. They fled thru the woods, with the police close at their heels. The arch criminal planned to kill five of the others in their sleep, aided by one of the group. At the last moment, however, the man who was to assist him in the massacre turned on him and shot him to death.

Frank Munn will sing four current favorites as his "Waltz Time" solos Friday at 9:00 p. m. over WJAZ. The tenor has chosen "Always in My Heart" "When the Lights Go on Again" "Moon Love" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

Abe Lyman's orchestra features three hits from musical comedy: Berlin's "I Left My Heart at the Stage Door Canteen," Cole Porter's "I Get a Kick Out of You" and Kreisler's "Stars in My Eyes." Contralto Evelyn MacGregor's solos are "Take Me" and "A Boy in Khaki."

Alfred Lunt, celebrated stage star, will make a rare microphone appearance as guest narrator on "Men, Machines—Victory," Friday, at 10:30 p. m., over WJZ, vital safety series presented in cooperation with the War Production Fund to Conserve Manpower.
