"Over Here" New Government Sponsored Program Starts

Clark Shaughnessy, Famed Coach, To Appear As Guest Saturday Night On "Sports Newsreel Of The Air"

"Over Here" is the self-explanatory title of a new program for the OWI and the Treasury department, starting on WJZ Nov. 28, at 8:30 p. m., EWT.

The initial airing, dedicated to the men who are on Uncle Sam's payroll, will include Ronald Colman as master of ceremonies and numerous other names. Bill Bacher will direct. Each broadcast will consist of five acts. Stars slated to appear on future shows are Bob Burns, Burns and Allen, Kay Kyser and his "College of Musical Knowledge" troupe Fred Allen, Veronica Lake and similar high-bracket performers.

To build a bridge of better understanding between war production workers thruout the English speaking nations, WJZ in cooperation with the Labor Production division of the OWI, will present "Freedom Bridge," a 15-minute program, on Nov. 28, from 10:45 p. m. (EWT). Participating from London will be two workers in a depth charge manufacturing plant, and speaking from New York will be two men working in a similar factory.

Clark Shaughnessy, famed coach who has seen the shifting fortunes of football give him a cellar team one year and a Rose Bowl winner the next, will be guest of Bill Stern on "Sports Newsreel of the Air," Nov. 28 over WEAF, 10 p. m. (EWT). Stern, who will be in Annapolis that day to cover the Army-Navy game, will take advantage of the trip to interview Shaughnessy, who is now coaching the University of Maryland team.

Flipping back the pages of time's songbook, Dick Powell comes across "There's a Long Long Trail A Winding," for his Twilight of Yesterday tune, Nov. 28, (WEAF, 10:15 p. m., EWT).

Three stalwarts from the North Carolina Pre-Flight school football team will comprise Frank Crumit's male team to match wits with Julia Sanderson's team of three female Fordham university team rooters on the "Mr. Adam and Mrs. Eve" quiz broadcast, Nov. 28, at 8 p. m., (EWT) over WABC.

Songstress Irene Beasley, whose "miniature broadcasts" are often heard will be Nellie Revell's guest Nov. 28 (WEAF 10:30 a. m. EWT).

In tribute to Sarah Josepha Hale, famous editor who prevailed upon Pres. Lincoln to issue a proclamation setting Thanksgiving Day aside as a national holiday, a dramatization of her life will be given Nov. 28, at 11:30 a. m., EWT, over WJZ. Vivian Smallens will play the title role.

The gang's all here, on the "Grand Ole Opry" program Nov. 28, 9:30 p. m., WEAF, when Ford Rush, Minnie Pearl, the Golden West Cowboys and San Antonio Rose chug into Tennessee from touring the Army camps.

A refugee from Nazi Germany dies in an American's home and Ellery Queen gives up his Thanksgiving holiday to solve the strange mystery, which he calls "The Adventure of the Dead Man's Chest," Nov. 28 (WEAF, 7:30 p. m. EWT).
