

Soldier Cast Will Present "This Is The Army" Monday

Annabella (Mrs. Tyrone Power) To Star In Production Of "Louisiana Purchase"
On Air

The greatest theatrical hit of the year was written by a man who used to sing for pennies on a street corner. The show is "This Is the Army" and the man is Irving Berlin. After a smash hit on Broadway and a nationwide tour, "This Is the Army" will be presented on Monday, with the same all-soldier cast that appeared on Broadway along with Berlin himself. Cecil B. DeMille presents this unusual attraction in the broadcast over WABC at 9 p. m.

Film star Annabella, otherwise known as Mrs. Tyrone Power, is the lovely leading lady of Victor Moore and William Caxton in the Screen Guild Players' presentation of "Louisiana Purchase" on Monday, at 7:15 p. m., over with Bill Lawrence producing. The play was a double barreled hit of Broadway and the screen.

The inspiring tale of a whimsical little tailor—Hercules Mulligan, by name one of the unsung heroes of the Revolutionary War, will be related on "Cavalcade of America," Monday, (WEAF, 8 p. m.), in a dramatization entitled "A Plot to Kidnap Washington."

When George Washington told the truth, he didn't do it on a bet, and he didn't get into trouble. "Blondie" bets Dagwood that she can go a whole day without telling so much as one little white lie, and nearly gets into serious trouble trying to make good, in "Blondie Tells the Truth," which airs on Monday, at 7:30 p. m. over WABC.

James Melton, who traveled to Metropolitan Opera via radio, returns to the "Telephone Hour" Great Artists Series for his fifth appearance Monday (WEAF, 9 p. m.) George Washington's birthday will be honored with a special program of music by American composers.

For the first time the history of "Information, Please," a guest expert will be piped in from the west coast. Gregory Ratoff, film star and director, as a guest expert, will be answering questions from Hollywood via a second wire, as the rest of the board, which will include Novelist Christopher Morley, will be facing the questions of Clifton Fadiman in New York on the program Monday, at 10 p. m. over WEAF.
