"Lippy Leo" Durocher To Open Season For Dodger Fans On Bill Stern Program

Glamor comes to Groucho Marx when Joan Bennett, the appealing picture star, visits his "Blue Ribbon Town" program on WABC at 10:15 p. m. Saturday. The Madman of the Marxes has whipped up a routine which will also embrace the talents of Virginia O'Brien, the dead-pan singer, and Donald Dickson, the baritone.

Baseball's off to an early start this season. Of course, the calendar opening is on April 21, but for millions of Dodger fans the official date will be 11 days earlier, for on Saturday, Leo "Lippy" Durocher will go to bat as a guest of Bill Stern on the sports commentator's "Newsreel" (10 p. m. EWT over WEAF.) Altho the Brooklyn Bums haven't already got the 1943 pennant, you can be sure that their pugnacious mentor will put up a good argument why he should have it right with him there at the make.

Three adept question-askers indulge in an early morning session Saturday, when "Nellie Revell Presents" (WEAF 10:30 a. m., EWT) Arlene Francis and Budd Hulick. The genial co-quizzers of "What's My Name?" will be interviewed by veteran Nellie.

S. entry into the war, the patrol has played an outstanding role in conveying ships across the North Atlantic. In 1941, the patrol seized and dismantled a Nazi radio station operating in Greenland.

Two short stories by John Collier will be presented by Nelson Olmsted, dramatic narrator, on his "World's Greatest Stories" program Saturday, (WEAF, 11:15 p. m. EWT).

Aaron Copland's musical characterization of Abraham Lincoln entitled "A Lincoln Portrait," will be performed by the Boston Symphony orchestra over WJZ, Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, conducting, Saturday at 8:15 p. m., EWT. The distinguished actor, Will Geer, will act as narrator for the portrait.

"The Man Who Delivers," ironical story of a World War I ambulance driver who becomes a member of his town's emergency corps in World War II, will be presented Saturday, (WEAF 11 a. m., EWT.)
